PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, March 23, 1868.

SENATE.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. ERRETT, of Allegheny, repealing the third section of the act of April 12th, 1851, relative to the Lewisville and Prospectville Turnpike Company, and relative to lateral railroads in Allegheny county.

A supplement to the act establishing a sinking fund.

Changing the fiscal year to commence November 13th.

On motion of Mr. WORTHINGTON, of Chester, the Speaker was authorized to appoint a committee of two on proper legislation, relative to charities of State, to act with the Superintendent of Common Schools.

The Speaker appointed Mr. Worthington, of Chester, and Mr. Errett, of Allegheny.

Act revising and consolidating laws regulating licensing of foreign insurance companies, recommended by commissioners to revise tax laws. Passed finally.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—Generals Hancock and Gordon Granger were before the Impeachment Managers yesterday, and were separately interrogated as to any conversations with the President respecting military matters. The former was especially asked the reason of his coming to Washington by order of the President. He stated he had previously asked to be relieved from command of the Fifth Military Department and to be sent to St. Louis to await orders; that the President desired to converse with him on that subject, and the state of affairs in Louisiana. The President had said nothing to him apart from those matters, nor had the President yet determined to relieve him from his present command.

—The boiler which supplied hot water to the bath room in Thomas Cook's residence in Cincinnati, exploded on Sunday morning, causing damage to the extent of $1,200, but fortunately injuring a little boy only slightly.

—The United States Supreme Court yesterday gave leave to the State of Georgia to serve on defendants, General Grant et al., notice of a motion for a special injunction, returnable on or before Friday.

—Shoemakers of Marlborough, Mass., who are on a strike, on Saturday beat to death a man who attempted to go to work against their wishes.

—The McArdle case goes over till next fall—six of the Supreme Court Judges agreeing to the postponement and two opposing it.

—C. Kingsland & Son's banking house, in New York, was robbed of forty-five thousand dollars in bonds on Sunday night.

—The Atlantic Base Ball Club of New York will make a Western tour in April, playing first in Cincinnati for one week.

—Information from Arkansas shows that the Arkansas Constitution was defeated as the Constitution of Alabama was.

—Earthquakes continue at St. Thomas, in the West Indies; also at Porto Rico, where the shocks are reported as awful.

—It is stated that the Ways and Means Committee have finally determined to retain the two dollar tax on whisky.

—It was rumored yesterday that John C. Breckinridge was in New York incognito.

THE COURTS.

District Court—Judge Williams.

T. B. Young & Co. vs. Dr. H. W. C. Tweddle. Verdict for plaintiff for $267,12.

Andrew J. Crow vs. John McClaren. Verdict for plaintiff for $174,72.

M. P. Adams & Bro. vs. Joseph Logan. On trial.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

In the bankruptcy branch petitions for final discharge were filed by Messrs. Jenkins, Welsh & Co., consisting of Andrew Jenkins, Jones Jenkins, George Jenkins, Adam Jenkins, Andrew Welsh, and John Welsh, of Monongahela city, Washington county. Petitions were also filed by Samuel J. Baily, of Oil City, and Henry N. Connor, of Crawford county. The usual orders were made.

Final discharges were granted to Wenman Wade and Ohio Wade, of Greene county, and certificates awarded.

Petitions for adjudication were filed by Frank Allen, of Erie, Geo. Kleckner, of Crawford county, and Josiah Benton, of Venango county, Quarter Sessions—Judge Mellon.

Joseph Lofink, Jr., for selling liquor without license, was fined fifty dollars and costs.

Christian Benning was found guilty of committing an assault and battery upon Nicholas Knoer. Sentence deferred.

L. J. Keuchler, dentist, of Allegheny City, was placed on trial on an indictment charging him with committing a rape upon the person of Catherine Wurtz. The prosecutrix testified that in May last she went to the office of the defendant to get some of her teeth pulled, and took chloroform, or like substance, to produce insensibility during the operation. Her teeth being drawn, she paid the dentist a dollar, and left. Four months and a few weeks afterward, feeling herself in a peculiar condition, she consulted a midwife, who informed her what was the matter. On the 27th of January last her child was born. The prosecutrix testified to her belief that the defendant outraged her on the occasion of her being at his office to get her teeth drawn, although she stated that at the time she was not conscious of the fact. The case was not concluded at adjournment.

THE West India Telegraph lines will ere long be extended to all the large islands, as well as to New Grenada, and probably one or two points on the South American coast. The agent of the International Company has applied to the Legislature of Jamaica for permission to land the Cuba Cable, and to put up a land line across Jamaica. Thence a sub-marine line will reach Aspinwall, giving us South American and Pacific Ocean news a week or more sooner than at present by steamers.

WASHINGTON, March 23, 1868.

SENATE.

[The first portion of the Senate proceedings failed to reach us, the Associated Press agent here stating that it could not be obtained.]

Mr. TRUMBULL called for the reading of the rule, saying he understood one o'clock was the hour appointed.

The rule was read, providing that on the day set apart for the trial the Senate shall cease executive and legislative business, and proceed to the trial of impeachment.

Mr. EDMUNDS called attention to a subsequent order introduced by Mr. Howard, of the Committee of seven, adjourning the Court until one o'clock to-day. This, he said, was the day set apart for receiving the answer, and not proceeding to the trial.

Several Senators suggested to leave it to the decision of the Chair.

The Chair decided the rule was operative and business must now cease.

Mr. EDMUNDS respectfully appealed from the decision of the Chair.

The Chair announced the question to be "shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?" but at the suggestion of Mr. Trumbull, Mr. Edmunds withdrew the appeal, and the Secretary was again directed to notify the House that the Senate was ready to proceed with the trial of impeachment.

During the interim Mr. Stevens entered quietly at the side door and took his seat at the Managers' table.

At one o'clock the President pro. tem. vacated the chair.

The Chief Justice called the Senate to order.

The Sergeant-at-Arms made the usual proclamation, commanding silence, whereupon the Managers appeared at the door.

The Sergeant-at-Arms announced, "Managers of Impeachment on the part of the House of Representatives," and the Chief Justice said, "The Managers will take the seats assigned to them by the Senate."

Messrs. Bingham and Boutwell led the way up the aisle and took their seats. Meantime Messrs. Stanbery, Curtis, Nelson, Evarts and Groesbeck, counsel for the President, entered and seated themselves at their table in the order named, Mr. Stanbery occupying the extreme right.

The Sergeant-at-Arms then announced the House of Representatives, and the members of the House appeared, headed by Mr. Washburne, on the arm of Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the House, and took seats outside the bar.

The Secretary of the Senate then read the minutes of the proceedings of the 13th instant.

Mr. Doolittle was then sworn, and when the journal had been read,

Mr. DAVIS submitted a motion, that the Constitution requiring the Senate to be composed of two Senators from each State, and certain States being unrepresented, therefore the trial of this case be discontinued until all the States are represented.

Mr. CONNESS moved that the motion be not received, and called for the yeas and nays.

Mr. HOWE moved to inquire whether the motion was in order.

The Chief Justice read the rule, and said Mr. Conness' motion was not in order, and directed the Secretary to call the yeas and nays on Mr. Davis' motion, with the following result: two to forty-nine, all present voting in the negative except Messrs. Davis and McCreery. Messrs. Saulsbury and Bayard did not vote.

Mr. STANBERY then rose and said he and his fellow counsel had devoted every hour since the last day's proceedings to preparing the President's answer, and regretted they had not had more time, but submitted it now.

Mr. CURTIS read it:

To the Senate of the United States:—Answer of the President to the Senate of the United States, sitting as a Court of Impeachment for the trial of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States.

ANSWER TO ARTICLE FIRST.

For answer to the first article he says that Edwin M. Stanton was appointed Secretary for the Department of War on the fifteenth day of January, A. D., 1862, by Abraham Lincoln, then President of the United States, during the first term of his presiding, and was commissioned, according to the Constitution and the laws of the United States, to hold the said office during the pleasure of the President. That the office of Secretary for the Department of War was created by an act of the First Congress in its first session, passed on the seventh day of August, A. D. 1789, and in and by that act it was provided and enacted that the said Secretary for the Department of War shall perform and execute such duties as shall from time to time be enjoined on and entrusted to him by the President of the United States, agreeably to the Constitution, relative to the subjects within the scope of said Department; and, furthermore, that the said Secretary shall conduct the business of said Department in such a manner as the President of the United States shall from time to time order and instruct. And this respondent, further answering, says that by force of the act, and by reason of his appointment aforesaid, the said Stanton became the principal officer in one of the Executive Departments of the Government, being the true intent of the second section of the second article of the Constitution of the United States, according to the true intent and meaning of that provision of the Constitution of the United States, and in accordance with the settled and uniform practice of each and every President of the United States, the said Stanton then became, and so long as he should continue to hold the office of Secretary of the Department of War, must continue to be one of the advisers of the President of the United States, as well as the person entrusted to act for and represent the President in matters enjoined upon him or entrusted to him by the President touching the Department aforesaid, and for whose conduct in such capacity, subordinate to the President, the President is, according to the Constitution and laws of the United States, made responsible. And this respondent, further answering, says he succeeded to the office of President of the United States on and by reason of the death of Abraham Lincoln, then President of the United States, on the 15th day of April, 1865, and said Edwin M. Stanton was then holding said office of Secretary for the Department of War, under and by reason of the appointmen, and commission aforesaid, and not having been removed from said office by this respondent, the said Edwin M. Stanton continued to hold the same under the appointment and commission aforesaid, at the pleasure of the President, until the time hereafter particularly mentioned, and at no other time received any appointment or commission as above detailed. And this respondent, further answering, says that on and prior to the 5th day of August, A. D., 1867, this respondent, the President of the United States, responsible for the conduct of the Secretary for the Department of War, and having the Constitutional right to resort and rely upon the person holding that office for advice concerning the great public duties enjoined on the President by the Constitution and laws of the United States, became satisfied that he could not allow the said Stanton to hold office as Secretary of the Department of War, without hazard of the public interest; that the relations between said Stanton and President no longer permitted the President to resort to him for advice, or in the judgment of the President, be safely responsible for the conduct of the Department of War, as by law required, in accordance with orders and instructions of the President thereupon, by the force of the Constitution and laws of the United States, which devolve on the President the power and duty to control the conduct of the business of the Executive Department of the Government and by reason of the constitutional duty of the President to take care that the laws be faithfully executed, this respondent did necessarily consider and determine the said Stanton ought no longer to hold said office of Secretary for the Department of War, and this respondent, by virtue of the power and authority vested in him as President of the United States, by the Constitution and laws of the United States, to give effect to such his decision and determination, did, on the 5th day of August, A. D. 1867, address to the said Stanton a note, of which the following is a true copy:

"Sir: Public considerations of a high character constrain me to say that your resignation as Secretary of War will be accepted."

To which note the said Stanton made the following reply:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5th, 1867.

SIR: Your note of this day has been received, stating that "public considerations of a high character" constrain you to say that my resignation as Secretary of War will be accepted. In reply I have the honor to say that public considerations of a high character, which alone induce me to continue at the head of this Department, constrain me not to resign the office of Secretary of War before the next meeting of Congress.

Very respectfully, yours,
EDWIN M. STANTON.

This respondent, as President of the United States, was thereon of opinion that having regard to the necessary official relations and duties of the Secretary for the Department of War to the President of the United States, according to the Constitution and laws of the United States, and having regard to the responsibility of the President for the conduct of said Secretary, and having regard to the paramount executive authority of the office which the respondent holds under the Constitution and laws of the United States, it was impossible, consistent with public interest, to allow said Stanton to continue to hold the said office of Secretary for the Department of War, and it then became the official duty of the respondent, as President of the United States, to consider and decide what act or acts should and might lawfully be done by him, as President of the United States, to cause the said Stanton to surrender the said office. This respondent was informed and verily believes that it was practically settled by the First Congress of the United States, and had been so considered and uniformly and in a great number of instances acted upon by Congress and the Presidents of the United States in succession, from President Washington to and including President Lincoln, and from the first Congress to the Thirty-ninth Congress, the Constitution of the United States conferred on the President, as part of the Executive power, and as one of the necessary means and instruments of performing Executive duty, expressly imposed on him by the Constitution, of taking care that the laws be faithfully executed, the power at any and all times of removing from office all Executive officers for cause, to be judged of by the President alone. This respondent had the assurance of the Constitution, required the opinion of each principal officer of the Executive Departments upon the question of Executive power and duty, and had been advised by each of them, including the said Stanton, Secretary for the Department of War, that under the Constitution of the United States this power was lodged by the Constitution in the President of the United States, and consequently could be lawfully exercised by him, and Congress could not deprive him thereof; and this respondent in his capacity as President of the United States, and because in that capacity he was both enabled and bound to use his best judgment upon that question, did, in good faith, and with honest desire to arrive at the truth, come to the conclusion and did make the same known to the honorable the Senate of the United States, by a message dated on the 2d day of March, 1867, a true copy whereof is hereunto annexed, and marked "A," that the power last mentioned was conferred, and the duty of exercising it in cases was imposed on the President by the Constitution of the United States, and that the President could not be deprived of this power or relieved of this duty, nor could the same be vested by law in the President and the Senate jointly, either in part or in whole, and this has ever since remained and was the opinion of this respondent at the time when he was forced, as aforesaid, to consider and decide what act or acts should and might be lawfully done by this respondent, as President of the United States, to cause the said Stanton to surrender said office. This respondent was also then aware that by the first section of an act regulating the tenure of certain civil offices, passed March 2d, 1867, by a Constitutional majority of both Houses of Congress, it was enacted as follows:

"That every person holding any civil office to which he has been appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and every person who shall hereafter be appointed to such office, and shall become duly qualified to act therein, is and shall be entitled to hold such office until a successor shall have been in like manner appointed and duly qualified, except, as herein otherwise provided, that the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of War, of the Navy, and of the Interior, the Postmaster General and the Attorney General, shall hold office for and during the term of the President by whom they may have been appointed, and for one month thereafter, subject to removal by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

This the respondent understood as intended to be an expression of the opinion of the Congress by which that act was passed that the power to remove an Executive officer for cause might by law be taken from the President and vested in him and the Senate jointly, and although this respondent had arrived at and still retained the opinion above expressed, and verily believed, as he still believes, that the first section of the last mentioned act was and is wholly inoperative and void, by reason of its conflict with the Constitution of the United States, yet inasmuch as the same had been enacted by the constitutional majority in each of the two Houses of that Congress, this respondent considered it to be proper to examine and decide whether the particular case of the said Stanton, on which it was respondent's duty to act, was within or without the terms of that first section of the act, or within it, whether the President had not power according to the terms to remove said Stanton from the office of Secretary for the Department of War, and having, in his capacity of President of the United States, examined and considered, did form the opinion that the case of said Stanton and his tenure of office were not affected by the first section of the last named act. And this respondent, further answering, says that although a case thus existing, which in his judgment, as President of the United States, called for the exercise of the executive power to remove said Stanton from office as Secretary for the Department of War, and although this respondent was of opinion, as above shown, that under the Constitution of the United States the power to remove said Stanton from said office was vested in the President of the United States, and although this respondent was also of the opinion, as above shown, that the case of said Stanton was not affected by the first section of the last named act, and although each of the said opinions had been formed by this respondent upon an actual case requiring him in his capacity of President of the United States to come to the same judgment and determination thereon, yet this respondent, President of the United States, desired and determined to avoid, if possible, any question of the construction and effect of said first section of the last named act, and also the broader question of the executive power conferred on the President of the United States by the Constitution of the United States, to remove one of the principal officers of one of the Executive Departments for cause, seeming to him sufficient, and this respondent also desired it to be determined that, if from causes over which he could exert no control it should become absolutely necessary to raise and have settled in some way either or both of the last named questions, it was in accordance with the Constitution of the United States, and requires the President thereby, that questions of so much gravity and importance on which the Legislative and Executive Departments of the government had disagreed, which involved powers considered by all branches of the government during its entire history, down to the year 1867, to have been confided by the Constitution of the United States to the President, and to be necessary for the complete and proper execution of his duties, and should be in some proper way submitted to that Department of the government entrusted by the Constitution with the power and subjected by it to the duty, not only of determining finally the construction and effect of all acts of Congress, but of comparing them with the Constitution of the United States and pronouncing them inoperative when found in conflict with the fundamental law which the people have enacted for the government of all their servants. And to these ends, first, that through the action of the Senate of the United States the absolute duty of the President to substitute some fit person in place of Mr. Santon as one of his advisers, and as a principal subordinate officer, whose official conduct he was responsible for, and had a lawful right to control, might be accomplished without the necessity of raising any one of the questions aforesaid; and second, if this duty could not be so performed, then that these questions, or such of them as might necessarily arise, should be judicially determined in the manner aforesaid. And for no other end or purpose this respondent, as President of the United States, on the 12th day of August, 1867, seven days after the reception of the letter of said Stanton hereinbefore stated, did issue to said Stanton the order following: "Executive Mansion, Washington, August 12, 1867.—Sir: By virtue of the power and authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and laws of the United States, you are hereby suspended from office as Secretary of War, and will cease exercising all functions pertaining to the same. You will at once transfer to General U. S. Grant, who has this day been authorized and empowered to act as Secretary of War ad interim, all records, books, papers and other public property now in your charge."

The Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War, to whom said order was addressed, made the following reply:

War Department, Washington, August 12th, 1867.—Sir: Your note of this date has been received, informing me that by virtue of powers vested in you as President by the Constitution and laws of the United States, I am suspended from the office of Secretary of War, and will cease to exercise any and all functions portaining to the same, and also directing me at once to transfer to Gen. U. S. Grant, who has this day been authorized and empowered to act as Secretary of War ad interim, all records, books, papers and other public property now in my custody and charge. Under a sense of public duty I am compelled to deny your right under the Constitution and laws of the United States, without the advice and consent of the Senate, and without legal cause, to suspend me from office as Secretary of War, or the exercise of any or all functions pertaining to the same, or without such advice and consent to compel me to transfer to any person records, books, papers and public property in my custody as Secretary. But inasmuch as the General commanding the armies of the United States has been appointed ad interim, and has notified me he has accepted the appointment, I have no alternative but to submit under protest of to superior force.

To the President.

And this respondent, further answering, says it is provided in and by the second section of an act to regulate the tenure of certain civil offices that the President may suspend an officer from the performance of duties of the office held by him for certain cause designated until the next meeting of the Senate, and until the case shall be acted on by the Senate.

[Owing to the storm which prevailed last night, we are compelled to go to press without a full report of the President's answer. We present, however, the following synopsis, which covers the points taken by Mr. Johnson.]

In answer to the second article he denies that he violated the Constitution in appointing General Thomas Secretary of War. He denies that there was no vacancy in said War office. In the third article he answers by saying that the first and second answer covers all the points in this.

In answer to the fourth article that he attempted to gain possession of said War office by force, he says that he only authorized said Thomas to get possession in order to bring said question into the Supreme Court of the United States. He gave Thomas no authority to resort to force, or call in the aid of the military.

In answer to the fifth article he denies that he conspired with Thomas, or any person, to prevent Stanton from retaining the position he held illegally.

In answer to the sixth article he denies having conspired with Thomas to get possession of the funds of the War Office, or other public property.

He denies, in answer to the seventh article, that he violated the laws or the Constitution, or that the article constitutes high crime or misdemeanor.

In answer to the eighth article he denies that he gave Thomas a letter of appointment in order to control the funds of the War Office, but admits giving said letter; denies any intent to violate law. Denies that this is high crime and misdemeanor.

In answer to the ninth article he denies that in conversation with General Emory that he endeavored to get him to disobey any law, or offered him any inducement to do so. He denies all the allegations in said ninth article, and that it constitutes high crime and misdemeanor.

In answer to the tenth article he does not admit that the speech claimed to have been made by him in response to the delegation from the Philadelphia Convention is a correct report. Denies the truth of the remarks attributed to him as being delivered at Cleveland and St. Louis, and claims that all his speeches were delivered in his right as an American citizen, and as President of the United States, for which he cannot be questioned.

In answer to article eleventh, he denies that in the public speech in Washington he said that Congress was not a lawful Congress of the United States, or would not be until the ten Southern States were represented. He insists on being permitted to use the freedom of speech or opinion.

The reading of the answer occupied one hour and a half.

Mr. BOUTWELL, on behalf of the Managers, requested a copy of the answer, and said it was their expectation to present their replication to-morrow, at one o'clock.

Mr. EVARTS then addressed the Court in relation to the period of time to be allowed the respondent after the replication is filed before the trial is to proceed. He said the President's counsel had been too fully occupied with the preparation of his answer to make any preparation whatever for the trial, and they therefore requested that the Court allow the President and and counsel thirty days from the date of the replication to prepare for the trial.

A motion in writing to that effect was presented and read by the Secretary.

Mr. HOWARD moved it lie on the table until after the replication is filed, but withdrew it on Mr. Bingham's announcement that the Managers were ready to express their opinion on the application at once.

Mr. LOGAN, on behalf of the Managers, said they should oppose it, because there was no reason offered for the delay, except that the President's counsel needed time. He said they had as much time as the Managers, and some other reasons should be given, as there had been in the applications for delay made in former trials for impeachment, when it was always stated on oath that time was needed to produce distant witnesses, &c. No such cause was alleged or shown, and the rule adopted by the Senate required the trial to proceed unless cause for delay was shown. The Managers insisted that no more time should be taken up than was absolutely necessary for the trial of the case. No more time should be granted to the President than to the meanest man. At the expiration of the thirty days, application might be made for further delay, to send for witnesses, perhaps, to Sitka. Material reasons for delay should be assigned now.

Mr. EVARTS called the attention of the Court to the fact that the President's counsel had been allowed only eight working days in which to prepare their answer, and said it was not an answer to their present application that equal haste would be necessary on the part of the Managers as on the part of themselves. Their positions were not similar. The Managers had enjoyed peculiar facilities for summoning and examining witnesses. The President had public duties which employed much of his time. The counsel asked no more in this case, for the President, than they would for the poorest criminal. If unforseen circumstances should arise requiring delay for the President, of witnesses for either side, it would be the duty of the Court to grant it.

Mr. WILSON announced the determination of the Managers to resist all unnecessary delay. The first step taken by the counsel on the 13th was in vindication of the precedents of former impeachment trials. In the case of Judge Chase the respondent had asked for eleven months' delay, supporting his application by sworn statements. Only thirty days were granted, and yet his preparation was so perfect as to secure his acquittal. In the elaborate answer to-day presented, he (Mr. Wilson) found the strongest argument against delay, for the respondent therein claimed his right was the very things on which this trial is based. The respondent's case was not that of an ordinary criminal. He asked time in which he may continue to injure the interests of the country, as he had done, by acts which he now justified. The cause shown in this application was not such as would warrant the Senate, under the rules, to grant a delay. The counsel should not be allowed time to educate themselves in the cases.

Mr. STANBERY replied that some reliance should be placed by the Court on the personal honor of the counsel, when they say they have been so pressed for preparing their answer, that they have not had time given them to communicate with the President as to what witnesses should be summoned. While they were so engaged the Managers had been arranging for the conduct of their case, Mr. Stanbery reiterated that he and his fellow counsel had not even a document prepared, or a witness summoned, and if they were forced to proceed with the case to-morrow, they would appear defenceless and unarmed. He appealed to the Court for time—if not the full period asked for, at least a portion. He argued against the construction placed by the Managers on the rule cited by Mr. Bingham. He was about to reply, when the Chief Justice remarked the Managers could not close the debate.

Mr. HOWARD moved the application be laid on the table.

Mr. JOHNSON called for the reading of the twentieth rule, limiting the debate on interlocutionary motions to one hour.

By consent of the Senate, Mr. BINGHAM then replied to Mr. Stanbery, saying no one questioned the honor of counsel, but this application was not to be decided by reference to that consideration. The President had sent his counsel here to ask, upon honor, for an extension of forty days to prepare his answer. Only ten days were granted, and the answer was prepared and ready. Now they ask, upon their honor, for thirty days to prepare for trial. The President had been guilty of gross negligence in not summoning witnesses, and he was now trifling with the Senate. He wanted thirty days in which to prepare to show still more clearly that the Constitution was but a Cabinet in his hands to prepare for further abuses of the mighty power he still wields. The words of his answer, in which he claims the right to remove all executive officers at will, while the Senate is in session, were conclusive evidences of his guilt and dangerous intentions. They constituted a menace to the Senate. The country has no less a right to a speedy trial than the accused. In the name of the people the Managers demanded that the trial should proceed. He would venture to say that no cause for delay could be shown by the counsel but which the Managers could overcome. They would probably admit whatever the witnesses to be called would be able to prove for the respondent.

Mr. HENDERSON offered a motion to have the application acted upon after the filing of the replication.

Mr. BUTLER, for the Managers, urged that the question of time should be settled now.

The yeas and nays were called on Mr. Henderson's motion, which was not agreed to, by a vote of twenty-five to twenty-eight.

Mr. HOWARD renewed his motion that the application lie on the table, but

Mr. DRAKE made the point of order that the motions of counsel must be acted upon by a vote of the Senate at once, which the Chair sustained.

The yeas and nays were then taken on the original motion, that thirty days' time be granted, and it was negatived by a strict party vote—twelve to forty-one.

Mr. SHERMAN then made a motion to adjourn, but before it was put

Mr. EVARTS amended his motion, so as to apply for a reasonable time after the replication of the Managers is filed, to be now fixed by the Senate.

Mr. JOHNSON moved that ten days be allowed, but the motion to adjourn was put and the Court adjourned until to-morrow at one o'clock.

The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. CLARKE presented resolutions of the Kansas Legislature, pledging support to Congress in the removal of Andrew Johnson if found guilty.

Mr. HOLMAN offered a resolution expressing the judgment of the House that Government bonds, except when expressly made payable in coin, should be payable in lawful money of the United States, commonly known as United States notes.

He moved the previous question, which was opposed by Messrs. Garfield and Blaine and refused by the House. The resolution was then referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, the House refusing to order the yeas and nays thereon.

The House having received a message from the Senate resolved itself into Committee of the Whole and proceeded to the Senate chamber to attend the impeachment trial.

When the members returned, Mr. BINGHAM said the Impeachment Managers had anticipated the President's answer, and had prepared a replication thereto.

After a lively time among the members, the House adjourned till to-morrow at 11 o'clock to consider the replication.

GREEDY JIM.

[Being a story of a little boy who swallowed a whole butter-pat, not knowing that it contained a fairy.]

"Greedy Jim is always rude,
Pokes his hand in every dish:
In his hurry to intrude,
Swallows bones instead of fish:
Swallows bad instead of good:
Snatches meat but swallows fat—
Greedy Jim, extremely rude,
Swallows a whole butter-pat!

"'Goodness! Jim, don't look so wild!'
'Gracious! Jim, don't scream so shrill!'
'What's the matter with the child?'
'Goodness, gracious! are you ill?'
Father's getting rather riled,
Mother hardly draws her breath,—
'Goodness! Jim, don't look so wild;
Sure you frighten us to death!'

"Tumbling down and leaping up,
Twisting limbs in ev'ry shape;
Rolling, grov'lling like a pup,
Mowing, mopping like an ape:
Tasting neither bit nor sup,—
Yelling like an imp in pain:
Tumbling down and leaping up—
Certainly the boy's insane.

"Little have his parents guess'd
Whence the mighty mischief springs:
Men and women, much depress'd,
Recommend a hundred things.
But it's hard, if truth's confess'd,
To find cure or antidote;
For—a fairy in your chest,
Trying to ascend your throat!'"

—The Methodist Episcopal society of Warren has commenced operations for building a new church on High street, having purchased the Judge Spear property. The location is a beautiful one, and the edifice, when finished, will greatly add to to the beauty of that part of the town.

—The business men of Sharon have clubbed togetner and raised a fund for the payment of a night police force, and two men are now on duty. The Herald says the move is worthy of that enterprising town, and hopes it may be able to moderate the rowdyism for which their town is getting something of a reputation.

—The Cincinnati Gazette says that the suit instituted against Peter Fulk, of Warren, for embezzlement of Government property, has terminated in his entire acquittal. The Gazette adds that the Government has been subjected to a heavy expense by this ill-advised lawsuit. The prosecution made a poor showing during the trial.

—The Toledo Blade has received a communication from H. W. Roby, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, stating that the friends of A. H. Durant, of Compamy I, 26th Ohio Volunteers, who was missing just after the battle of Resaca, Georgia, May 15th, 1864, can learn the fate of that soldier by addressing Mr. Roby at Milwaukee. Mr. Roby states that he is the only Union soldier living who knows what became of Mr. Durant. Ohio papers are requested to extend the notice.

—During the high water last week, a train of freight cars, in Mineral Ridge, became detached, it is supposed, about 10 o'clock, p. m., and three cars ran along the track until they reached the bridge, when it gave way and the cars and freight was precipitated into the stream.—They were loaded with coal, lime and iron ore. The next morning all that was to be seen of the missing cars, was a little of one end of one which was not entirely under water.—Canfield Herald.

—John Robertson, Postmaster at New Lisbon, Columbiana county, who was arrestnd a few days since, was held for trial at Cleveland, on Saturday, by United States Commissioner White, in the sum of $300. The charges against him were: 1st. Embezzling funds belonging to the United States. 2d. Presenting for allowance a fraudulent claim against the United States. 3d. Stealing money from letters passing through New Lisbon Postoffice. The defendant is about sixty years of age, and has hitherto borne an irreproachable character. The case was conducted on behalf of the United States by Capt. Bunts. Assistant District Attorney, and for the defence by Messrs. Powers & Clark, of New Lisbon.

—On Tuesday morning of last week, as we learn from the Canfield Herald, while Mr. Reuben Alexander was engaged at work in the flax and tow mills owned by Messrs. Case & Patterson, his hand came in contact with some of the machinery, and before it could be withdrawn was badly mangled. The fingers of his left hand were torn off near the first joint, so as to render amputation necessary as far as the second joint. The bones of the hand are also badly crushed. He walked about a half mile for the physician after the accident, showing his haud to people as he passed along, apparently as unconcerned as if nothing but the smallest accident had happened. Dr. J. E. Fowler performed the operation and carefully dressed the wound.

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers are still receding steadily at this point with eight feet in the Monongahela and nine feet eight inches in the Allegheny. The weather yesterday was warm, and towards evening it became quite cloudy, with indications of rain.

The Julia No. 2, from Zanesville, is the only arrival we have to record. She had a very good trip, and will return as usual today. The Kenton, from Cincinnati, and the Glendale and Armenia, from St. Louis, are among the first boats due.

The McCullough departed for Parkersburg a little behind time, and the Tennessee cleared for St. Louis last evening. The latter boat did not have much of a trip from here, but it is said thai she has engagements below.

The Echo arrived from Oil City yesterday afternoon with an excellent trip, having among other items about seven hundred baarels of crude oil. The Ida Rees No. 2, Capt. Rees, is the regular packet for Oil City to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The Wild Duck barges, Capt. Anawalt, are filling up rapidly for St. Louis, and will depart this evening.

The R. C. Gray is filling up slowly for Memphis and New Orleans, as is also the America, for Nashville. The Kate Putnam, Capt. Lightner, is announced for St. Louis and the Illinois river.

The Wauanita, Capt. Shuman, will be the first boat out for the Missouri river, and the Messenger, Crpt. Jesse Dean, is now in turn for the Upper Mississippi. The Andrew Ackley, Capt. Bolie, will be the first boat out for the mountains.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of Saturday, says: Capt. Sharp Hemhill, having retired from the office of the Kenton, took last night's train for Pittsburgh, where he will take command of the new mountain packet Andy Ackley. Capt. Hemphill is a veteran in the service, having been navigating our waters since 1836, when he was engaged in clerking on the Chattaoochie and Savannah rivers. The New York and Emma No. 3 are loading for Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Saturday, says: Commodore Wm. J. Kountz, of the government fleet of mountain steamers, has arrived and located himself in this city in order to superintend the large business of the fleet. One particular object at present engaging his attention is the selection of pilots for his steamers. He has had a considerable number of applications but is not yet full.

The Memphis Avalanche says: "Captain John Cannon & Co. have purchased an interest in the steamer Governor Allen. She has been withdrawn from the Vicksburg trade; and leaves New Orleans to-day for Memphis in place of the Quitman.

As cotton shipments are rapidly falling off this trip will probably end the season for the Henry Ames, She has made mouey in the trade, and we doubt whether she made a losing trip during the season.

The Cincinnati Chronicle, of Saturday, says: The St. Charles will not run in the Maysville, in place of the Magnolia, as has been announced, but will continue as a regular packet for Pittsburg, leaving here on Monday next.

In reference to the barge line mania the St. Louis Republican states that ten boats have combined to run out the barges, and adds:

The exceedingly low rates of freight to New Orleans, established last week and continued to this, have resulted in the Barge Company withdrawing from the fight, thus proving conclusively what has always been claimed by practical and experienced boatmen, that freight could not be carried as cheap by barges as by steamers.

RESPONSIBILITY OF PILOTS.—The following is from the New York Times:

It is strange, to say the least, that no greater punishment than the revocation of a license can be inflicted upon a steamboat pilot was carelessly runs his boat into another and sinks her, causing loss of life and property. Such, however, seems to be the case, according to the decision of Supervising Inspector Bradford, of this port. It appears that the license of the pilot of the steamer Vanderbilt was revoked some time since by the Local Board of Steamboat Inspectors for his misconduct in running down the steamer Dean Richmond on the Hudson river, in September last, causing the vessel to sink, the destruction of one or two lives, and placing a large number of passengers in peril of death. The pilot thus deprived of his license carried his case on appeal before the Supervising Inspector, who, after carefully reviewing the evidence, confirmed the decision of the local board, but finding also that the pilot of the Dean Richmond was likewise blamable, revoked his license as well. In announcing his decision the inspector takes occasion to express his regret that for such "hardened carelessness" the law provids no more severe penalty than the one he has felt called called upon to inflict." The traveling public will heartily concur in this regret, and demand that a statute be enacted to meet the requirements of such shameful recklessness as was apparent in the case thus lightly settled for the offenders.

IMPEACHMENT.

The answer of ANDREW JOHNSON was filed at noon yesterday. The document is too long to admit of commentary this morning. The Managers will file their reply to-day, and the trial will proceed on the day fixed by the Senate.

THE McARDLE case goes over to next fall, only two of the Judges opposing its postponement.

AT St. Louis, a memorial to Congress is in circulation asking for an amendment of the National Constitution abolishing the office of President. Congress is doing better, in taking measures to abolish a President who refuses to keep within the limits of his just prerogatives and powers.

IT IS STATED that the Ways and Means Committee have finally determined to retain the two dollar tax on whiskey. The country will naturally and justly depend upon the faithful collection, under a new administration, of this and all other taxes imposed by law. And the Republicans will not seek to evade this responsibility.

A BILL has been introduced into the legislature to restrict the liability of railway companies for damages inflicted on individuals through their negligence. The people of Johnstown, believing this bill to be primarily designed to relieve the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from responsibility for injuries inflicted upon persons at that place when President JOHNSON was "Swinging round the Circle," assembled a few days ago, in the public square of their town, in mass meeting, and vigorously denounced the bill, its aiders and abettors.

THAT Mr S. P. CHASE is conscious of possessing unusual powers and experiences as a statesman, eminently fitting him for the Presidency, is probable enough. It is not unreasonable to infer that he feels he must either attain that high position this year, or not at all. His judgment, moreover, must satisfy him that he stands no chance whatever as a competitor to Gen. GRANT for the Republican nomination. The laudable ambition of his life is frustrated. Such a catastrophe is not easily borne. But that he intends to soil his record, and repudiate the principles, the defence of which made him illustrious, we do not believe. Washington gossips are busy with his reputation in this regard; but we know what these gossips are worth—and that is exactly nothing.

THE NEW BOUNTY BILL, which General SCHENCK has remodelled since its defeat in the Senate at the last session, substitutes Government land-scrip in lieu of money. The old bill owed its defeat, it is understood, to the apprehension that the money appropriation, which it authorized, say $100 per year to each honorably discharged soldier and sailor, would result in increasing the public debt by several millions. A still greater difficulty was found in harmonizing the views of Eastern and Western members, growing out of the fact that the payment of large bounties to avoid drafts was much more general in the Atlantic States. It is believed that the new bill will be cordially supported by a majority of members in both Houses, and that this appropriation of a portion of the public domain will be quite as acceptable to the people as the present tendency to its wholesale absorption, in grants to an indefinite number of railway projects, irrespective of their substantial merit.

THE REPUBLICAN VICTORY in New Hampshire has not only encouraged and strengthened our friends, both in and out of that State, but it has resulted in such a demoralization of its Democracy that an open rupture has taken place in its ranks. The two factions each charge the other with responsibility for the defeat, and accusations of bribery, treachery, and all sorts of political villainy generally are freely and very plausibly put forth on either side. We gather from their mutual recriminations, which are none the less spicy that they are supported by facts of which each faction has an abundance to cite, that the Democratic masses of the State have for years been led by a clique of selfish and unprincipled leaders, who have usually contrived to make personal profit indifferently from the victory or the defeat of their confiding followers. A more than usual amount of "Democratic villainy, Democratic money and railroad influence," (we quote the Secretary of the Democratic State Committee) has resulted in the latest and most humiliating defeat, one excellent result of which promises to be an immediate declaration of war between the two factions, with the establishment of a new journal in the interest of the seceding members, and a strong probability that several of the wealthiest and most active Democrats at the capital of the State will soon come out publicly for GRANT as their Presidential candidate. FRANKLIN PIERCE must wake up!

THE WORLD MOVES.

We have an abiding faith in the ultimate triumph of every sound principle, whether of individual morality or of public law. Nations, like individual citizens, are subject to the irresistible power of truth and justice, although they may be longer able, through the greater difficulty of reaching the collective conscience, to shield from the attack their old prejudices, or the peculiar interests of a governing class. But that public conscience is sure to be touched at last; the policy of a nation, foreign or domestic, is inevitably progressive toward its final emancipation from error, and the triumph of right may be counted upon in a year, a generation or a cycle, as morally and absolutely a certainty. Since Christendom emerged from the reign of mere brute force in the dark middle ages, its history abounds with proofs of the truth of our remark, while not an instance can be found, in its annals of brightening and elevating progress, of the ultimate defeat or extinction of great principles founded upon the higher obligations of the individual man to himself and his race, or of nations either to themselves or to other nations of the earth as interpreted under the precepts of Divine authority.

The march of enlightened knowledge has no brighter and more cheering illustration, and yields no hope more encouraging of the final assimilation of those hundreds of millions of our race who accept the great truths of Christianity, than in the present rapid development of perfected ideas of personal liberty. No truth lies nearer than this to the foundations of Social Progress, and none is more essential to the final triumph of Christianity throughout the earth. The more that all the barriers of international prejudice are broken down; that the fictitious and arbitrary lines which separate Christian peoples are obliterated; that the inter-communion of all civilized and enlightened men, hitherto subjects of no matter what particular government, is relieved from the restrictions which international jealousies, rivalries or other false estimates of necessity have imposed; the more, in short, that Christendom becomes everywhere homogeneous upon the basis of a common civilization, common privileges, and a common acceptance of the high truths deduced from the common faith in one God, one salvation and one great revelation for human guidance, by so much the more will we hope for the speedy christianization of the earth and the promised millennial glories.

Will not the future historian, albeit writing in some far off age yet to come, detect the elimination and establishment of one vitally essential element in the progress of civilization, towards the goal which the race is destined to reach, in the recent acknowledgment by two Christian nations of the right of individual citizens to the pursuit of their personal happiness irrespective of any obligations of allegiance heretofore deemed inherent in their nativity? It is not simply the adjudication, for a mere present convenience, of a question found to be temporarily embarrassing, for which we commend the recent treaty concerning expatriation between the United States and Prussia. It is, as the true statesman must regard it, as the philosopher will welcome it, and as the historian will record it, the first successful vindication of a principle vitally impulsive in the world's progress to that one great civilization which is in time to embrace all the nations on the globe.

The mighty power of that principle thus once acknowledged, is again shown, for a third great nation of Christendom avows its readiness to accept it and endorses its adoption into international law. Great Britain surrenders the prejudices of eight hundred years, seals up the records which attest her devotion to the now exploded feudal error, and avows herself ready to inaugurate the developed truth and to accept a larger and better view of the personal rights of man. We may well be encouraged to repeat our utterance of a few days since, that the three nations thus uniting in the vindication of a principle will give it an increasing moral influence, justifying the hope that the present generation will behold it everywhere recognized in the law of nations.

THE CITY WATER SUPPLY.

The imperative necessity of providing without delay an adequate supply of pure water for this city engages the attention not only of the press, but also of the public authorities. It is needless to recapitulate the facts upon which that necessity becomes urgent. We have only to recollect the extreme impurity of this vitally essential element of public health as well as convenience, during the last season, to be morally certain that the nuisance will soon return in its regular annual course, and that while we may enjoy, during a few of the winter months, a partial exemption from the infliction, we may safely count upon our "water" supply as being, for two-thirds of each year, a mere distribution of a nasty abomination, to grow only the nastier with each succeeding year.

To meet this exigency, the City Council have been already authorized to contract a new loan of $1,000,000, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to securing, in some way, pure water for our citizens. The authorities will, we are satisfied, apply to every attainable source of information, and exhaust the whole field of inquiry in careful research, with competent engineering aid, and having wisely in view not only the present needs, but the prospective requirements of the million of human beings who, in another generation, may occupy this seat of industry and wealth. The importance of adequately providing against all contingencies for years to come cannot be too highly appreciated.

The questions mainly turn upon the purity and abundance of supply, the engineering feasibility of the different plans proposed, and the probable cost of each. Let us, in passing, remark on the last point, that while we should undertake nothing that we are unable to carry through, yet no question of comparative expense should stand in the way of securing the purest supply, so long as we have the means at our command. Inside of our "bottom dollar," we should look to purity and abundance of supply as the paramount considerations. Of all the plans which have been suggested, we propose a recapitulation as follows:

1. From the Kiskiminetas. This stream was dried up last summer and for a period did not exist. It is therefore out of the question.

2. The canal scheme, or the occupation of the Western division of the Pennsylvania Canal from the mountains to this point. But since printing our own suggestions in this direction, we learn that the present occupation of this line, by the West Pennsylvania railway, also puts this plan out of the question.

3. It is proposed to go up the Youghiogheny river to a point, say a distance of seventeen miles from the city. We should there reach an elevation of 21 feet 3 inches above low water mark here. This affords a fall of 15 inches per mile following the course of the streams. The water-supply thence would undoubtedly be abundant and of the finest quality, free from any disturbing causes. The present receiving reservoir is 160 feet above low-water mark, but a proper conduit-pipe, having a capacity to pass 15,000,000 gallons each 24 hours, would need a grade or fall of only 12 inches per mile. We should need, therefore, to elevate it only 156 feet to reach our reservoir. The cost of such a conduit is estimated at $225,000 per mile, or a total for the 17 miles of $3,825,000. Two pumping-engines, each of them competent to raise the entire daily flow, with the necessary reservoirs, connecting pipes and engine-house would cost say $400,000 more, in all a total of $4,225,000.

But it is ascertained that, as the Monongahela describes a great bend, like that of a horse-shoe, in its course, an air-line route would reach the same head of supply on the Youghiogheny in eight and a half miles. The work would be, per mile, considerably more expensive, the conduit pipe would cross the Monongahela twice, over into Mifflin and back to this side, necessitating two aqueducts, each of which would be as expensive as one mile of the conduit on dry ground. The total cost of this air-line, as proposed, would be say $2,772,500.

Again, by using for the conduit, instead of the continuous chamber of brick, pipes of cast iron, four feet in diameter, these, when laid, would cost $175,000 per mile, or $50,000 less than the brick conduit of the same diameter. But as the friction is greater in small than in large pipes, a greater fall must be allowed for, and the engines would have to raise the water twelve feet higher.

4. It is proposed to go to a point on the Allegheny river, one hundred and six miles above the city, conducting the water thence, with a fall of two and a half feet per mile, in conduit pipes, relying upon gravity alone. The cost of this project is evidently so much greater as to forbid its consideration.

5. Another plan is suggested, also taking supply from the Allegheny, and which, we are informed by a competent engineer, would entail a cost not more than half that of the air-line supply, as above estimated from the Youghiogheny. The suggestion of this engineer is to go up the Allegheny, say five miles only, and remove the pumping engines to the upper end of the island above Sharpsburg, which might be six miles from the present reservoir; dig four trenches, one hundred feet apart, and each from six to eight hundred feet long, and five or six feet deep, in the middle of the river; lay therein pipes perforated on their upper surface with small holes, and so constructed as to permit the raising of the top of the pipe when choked; cover these pipes with gravel and sand up flush with the bottom of the river-bed; the supply-pipes to the pumps to be connected with these filtering pipes at about the middle of the same, and thereby drawing the water through the filter-bed from a distance of say four hundred feet on each side, and the supply pipe having fall enough to conduct the water into a vault or chamber at the bank from whence the pumps would lift it into a new receiving reservoir high enough to permit a flow thence to the present distributing reservoir. This filter would have a surface of 320,000 square feet, and would cost say $50,000, and the whole cost of the scheme is estimated at $1,360,000. But this may be reduced by leading the conduit in an air-line, passing near East Liberty, and saving a mile of distance over the river route; the reduction is estimated at $175,000, making the total cost per air-line only $1,185,000.

6. The same authority suggests another plan, viz: To build a pair of parallel walls on the gravel-bottom of the Allegheny at a distance of four hundred feet from the shore, and of six hundred or eight hundred feet in length in the direction of the current; fill in between these walls with gravel, joining the receiving vault by proper pipes, tapping the pure element, which would infiltrate up from beneath these walls. Based upon the last named proposition, the same authority suggests the expediency of going say three miles further up the river, to ensure greater freedom from impurities, but with a corresponding increase of expense.

It is well to bear in mind in connection with the subject of filtration, that it is a well ascertained fact that water does not purify itself in a state of rest in the reservoir.

In connection with all these propositions, it is also to be remembered that each of them coutemplates about the same amount of pumping and other mechanical contrivances for elevating the water. But, new and improved pumping engines, as now constructed, would save not less than $18,000 per year over our present fuel-bills.

We throw the various estimates under the above propositions in a tabular form as follows:

Cost of works and brick conduit-pipe on the long route from the Youghiogheny, 17 miles	$4,225,000
" Same route, iron pipes	3,375,000
" Brick conduit by air line, 8½ miles	3,000,000
" Iron pipe by ditto	2,600,000
" filtering-works above Sharpsburg and iron conduit on river route	1,360,000
" same works with conduit via East Liberty	1,185,000

The object of this article is only to spread all the accessible information before the public. We express no opinion upon the merits of the various suggestions, but may do so at a future time.

NEW YORK COMPANIES IN PENNSYLVANIA.

During the session of the Legislature for 1866, the Union Coal Company was chartered, the seat of its operations being in Luzerne county. During the last few months this Company, by means of a sheriff's sale, has been consolidated with, or, rather, absorbed by, the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company. This was, doubtless, the object for which the first named Company was organized. Recently the Northern Coal Company has been chartered and organized, to operate in Luzerne and Susquehanna counties. This Company has obtained possession of large bodies of coal lands near Providence, and also, near Carbondale, and intend to construct a railroad from Providence, up the Lackawanna creek, through Carbondale, to the Susquehanna river, at or near Lanesboro, where it will intersect the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad, or a feeder thereof, extending from Ninevah down to Lanesboro. The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company has made a heavy loan to the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Company, and has engaged to furnish it wtth a large amount of freight. Indeed, according to agreement, the delivery of this coal freight was to have commenced some months ago, upon the completion of the road from Albany to Lanesboro; but considerable delay has been incurred in constructing the road from the coal fields in Luzerne to the Susquehanna. It is now probable this difficulty will be overcome during the approaching summer by using the franchises granted to the Northern Coal Company. When this much shall be accomplished, it is fair to infer the Northern Coal Company will be swallowed by the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, thus creating one of the most opulent corporations in the country, with capital or property amounting in value to near or quite twenty millions of dollars—the stock being held at a premium of more than fifty per cent.

Meanwhile the great rival of this Company, the Pennsylvania Coal Company, having intersected the Erie Railway at Lackawaxen, is now surveying for a route from Turner's, on the Erie, across to the Hudson, near the city of New York, where it means to establish the most complete works for coaling steamers and freighting vessels that have yet been devised. Between Lackawaxen and Turner's it will use the Erie Railway, under a contract already in operation. This will furnish it a direct railroad route from Luzerne county to New York. The stock of this Company is at 75 per cent. premium.

Of course, these two mammoth companies do not make their enormous profits as common carriers, but by trading in coals.

MIDDLE CREEK RAILROAD.

A few weeks ago we made some allusion to this enterprise, by which it is proposed to make a direct connection between Pittsburgh and the Anthracite coal fields of Luzerne county. This road, when completed, will extend from Northumberland, at the forks of the Susquehanna river, to Lewistown, where Jack's creek falls into the Juniata river. This latter point is on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

To appreciate the importance of this project, under the aspect of distance saved, it is only needful to bear in mind that from Northumberland to Lewistown, by the Middle Creek route, is only fifty miles, while from Northumberland, down the Susquehanna, to Marysville, at the confluence of the Juniata with that stream, and thence up the Juniata to Lewistown, is one hundred and three miles. Here is a clear saving in distance of fifty-three miles.

Besides, as would naturally be inferred from this statement of distances, the Middle Creek route is the most direct one from Pittsburgh to the coal mines of Luzerne. It is not improbable that in the near future a large and valuable trade between these two points will spring up and be thenceforward constantly maintained.

From the last Report of JOSEPH ALEXANDER, Esq., President of the Middle Creek Railroad Company, to the stockholders thereof, we gather that a sufficient amount of stock will be subscribed for to complete the graduation, masonry and bridging during the current year, thus furnishing a basis upon which to issue bonds for the purchase of iron and equipment. He expresses the confident expectation not only that the work will be completed at an early day, but that the road will from the start command an amount of business to make it remunerative.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Pittsburgh Annual Conference of the M. E. Church—Sabbath Services—Closing Exercises—Appointments, &c.

[Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, March 23, 1868.

Yesterday (Sabbath) the different pulpits in Greensburg were filled by the members of the Conference. The Methodist Church, as usual on such occasions, was the center of attraction. A Conference Love Feast was held at nine in the morning and was well attended by ministers and laymen. It was a season of refreshing to all; to the gray haired pilgrim nearing the close of the journey, and to the young just starting as well. Many a heart melted, and many an eye overflowed, as past trials and triumphs were recounted, and the joyful hope indulged of one day

"Gathering at the river,
Where bright angel feet have trod."

The venerable Robert Boyd, the oldest member of the Conference, expressed the conviction that he was attending its session for the last time. He is solemnly and patiently awaiting his transfer, and even joyfully sings:

"I brush the dews on Jordan's banks,
The crossing must be near."

Sadly will he be missed, and long will his memory be cherished by his brethren.

The numbers increased until the hour for preaching arrived, by which time the house was crowded with worshipers, anxious to hear Bishop Kingsley. He chose as his text a part of the 6th verse of the 14th chapter of the gospel by St. John, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life," and preached a masterly sermon. Its delivery occupied an hour and a quarter, but the immense throng, many of whom were compelled to stand during the entire service, manifested no signs of uneasiness. The Bishop's manner is simple and direct, and the sermon was full of thought and attended with great unction. He will be heartily welcomed by the Conference at its future sessions, both as a preacher and presiding officer. At the close of the sermon ten persons were ordained deacons.

In the afternoon, at three o'clock, Rev. Edward Birkett, formerly stationed at Liberty street, in Pittsburgh, delivered a most effective sermon, after which three persons were ordained Elders. Mr. Birkett is justly recognized as a man of fine pulpit powers and decided ability. Many of his sermons are models of fine thought and polished diction.

Dr. C. A. Holmes, President of the Wesleyan University, Mount Pleasant, Iowa, preached in the Court House, at the same hour, to a crowded audience. He was formerly a member of the Conference, and occupied many of its prominent places.

At night the Church was again filled to hear the annual missionary sermon by Rev. James Henderson, of Wellsville, O. Mr. Henderson received his appointment at the last session. His sermon was plain and practical, and was an earnest appeal in behalf of the great missionary interests of the church.

This morning Conference met at the usual hour, and was opened with religious services conducted by Dr. George Loomis. But little business remained to be disposed of. The Stewards made their final report, which was adopted without discussion, according to previous arrangement. The reports of the committees on Freedmen's Aid Society and Church Extension, laid on the table for further consideration, were taken up and disposed of. The committee on memoirs also presented their report which was adopted. Three members died during the year, S. R. Brockheimer, T. J. Higgins and Alex. Bell.

One item of the report on Freedmen's Aid Society demands notice. It recommends to the General Conference the propriety of instituting a fundamental change in the Missionary machinery of the church, dividing it into different departments.

Thursday afternoon of next year's session was appointed as a time for a memorial meeting.

A resolution was also adopted recommending the next General Conference to so revise the ritual that there will be a uniform rule for conducting religious services in the M. E. Church.

The Committee on Tract Cause reported as the aggregate collection for the year $473 40, an increase of $51 on last year.

The business having all been disposed of, the closing hour arrived, an hour full of deep interest to every itinerant minister. Many go to new and untried fields of labor, and all leave with the deep conviction that at the next roll-call some will be missing and the Bishop and Secretary be called upon to write after their names—deceased. With tearful eyes hasty farewells are uttered and each hastens away to his new home to toil and suffer for the Master.

Physic a Relief of Heathenism.

A 25c. bottle of Wolcott's Pain Paint is of more efficacy in removing all pain, and effecting a permanent cure, than $10 invested in the purchase of burning liniments, plasters, or pills, which only aggravate and distress. Why? Because it reduces inflammat on a hundred times feaster than ice; causes no irritation; leaves no color; is harmless as water. No charge for removing pain, at 170 Chatham Square, New York, and 622 Arch Street, Philadelphia, in the Drug Store. Sold by druggists ten times faster than any other preparation.

All pills create disorder, and you find
All physic sure to weaken body, mind,
All liquids, hot, create a surface pain,
All syrups, soothing, will benumb the brain.
All proper food and fruit new life instil;
All medicine create a greater ill;
All nature fights; right reason damns the foe.
A relic of a thousand years ago.

And every patient who has ever been cursed with drugs, and all who have been singed with pepper liniments or Spanish flies, will say Amen most emphatically.

IT IS AMAZING

That the feeble should totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement. It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, ALL would know that its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies then with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the efficinal receipts and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop. JOHN SCANLAN,

Coal Bluffs, Washington Co., Pa.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. Whilst these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipt of a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

CARPET BEATING

ESTABLISHMENT.

Which TEN YEARS' TRIAL in New York and other Eastern cities has proved a complete success.

ITS ADVANTAGES:

1st—Fading and Shrinkage are completely avoided.
2d—No ripping apart necessary.
3d—When freed from dust, moths or their larvae, the Carpet looks nearly as good as new, save the natural fading from wear.
4th—When perfectly clean, a Carpet will wear as long again, a desirable matter as a mere point of economy, to say nothing of looks.

WANTED.—AGENTS FOR THE OFFICIAL HISTORY OF THE WAR; Its Causes, Character, Conduct and Results. By HON. ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS. A Book for all sections and parties.

This great work presents the only complete and impartial analysis of the Causes of the War yet published, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the great conflict only known to those high officers who watched the flood-tide of revolution from its fountain springs, and which were so accessible to Mr. Stephens from his position as second officer of the Confederacy.

The intense desire every where manifested to obtain this work, combined with an increased commission, makes it the best subscription book ever published.

One Agent in Easton, Pa., reports 73 subscribers in three days.

Another in Boston reports 103 subscribers in four days.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Monday, March 23, 1868.

Gold advanced sharply this morning to 140, on the presumption that the President would seek to gain time and his trial postponed to an indefinite period, but unexpectedly the President himself is anxious to have the trial proceed, bring it to a close, and remove all causes for excitement; in consequence, thereof, the market declined to 139¾, and closed at 138¾ bid. The scarcity of money may cause some further decline in gold, but commercially viewed the market showed an advance, so long as our imports exceeds our exports to such a large percentage—the currency value last week was eight millions, or nearly six millions in gold; to which add freight, other charges and difference in the market value, and the declarative value of the merchandise and seven millions gold value, is the true estimate.

Government bonds opened less buoyant than on Saturday, but during the early part of the day were steady. After the decline in gold they receded about ¾ per cent. on old bonds, and ½ to ⅝ per cent. on new and currency bonds, with large offerings. The expected tightness of the money market about April will hasten a further decline, even if only temporary.

Stocks are improving, and a renewed contest between the two rival parties in Erie is looked for, and since other stocks generally follow the market price of the large roads, it is likely that another sharp rise will take place during the week, to be succeeded by a heavier fall; the bears will have the benefit of the first of April scare, usual at quarter statement day for national banks.

Money is scarce for small borrowers or men doing an irregular business; otherwise capitalists are well supplied with loanable funds in the shape of bonds, which are readily convertible. Take it all together, the stringeney in the money market is less felt now than was anticipated, because everybody was prepared for it.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Monday, March 23, 1868.

CRUDE—The crude market is quiet and, if anything, a little weaker, though prices are without quotable change. We can report a sale of 2000 bbls for April, at 7¾; 2000 for May or June, seller's option, at 9c; and 3000 bbls on spot, on private terms. There are apparently more offers to sell than there was last week, though so far as we can learn, there is no disposition manifested on the part of holders to make concessions in order to effect sales. Prices are still sustained at Oil City, ranging from $3,10 to $3,15, and there is no margin to run oil to this market, as will be apparent to any one conversant with the trade.

REFINED—There is little or nothing doing in bonded oil, and while the market is quiet, prices are without quotable change. We have but a single sale to report, 500 bbls for March at 24½c. Quotations may be fairly given at 24½ to 24¾c for March; 25¼c for April; 26c for May; and 26½c for June. There is still considerable inquiry, mainly for future delivery, but the extreme views of holders has a tendency to retard operations.

—Since the above was put in type, we have a sale of 500 bbls reported for April at 25c.

ARRIVALS—Fisher & Bro. report having received 4675 bbls by river; and Henry Metzgar 2500—making a total of 7175 barrels.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Monday, March 23, 1868.

The general markets are steady and fairly active, and while there is a very good local demand for most of the leading commodities, and a fair volume of business in the aggregate, there are no changes in values worthy of special notice.

APPLES—With light arrivals and a limited supply, the market is firm with regular sales at $4 to $6 per bbl, for common to choice.

BUTTER—The receipts continue very light, and with a good demand and very meagre supply, prime to choice Roll may be quoted at 50 to 55c.

EGGS—Under the influence of increased arrivals, the market is a shade easier, and we quote at 27@28c.

GRAIN—Winter Wheat is in demand at $2,50@2,53 for Red, and 5c to 8c per bushel higher for White. Oats quiet and unchanged; 69@70c on track; and 73@75c in store. Corn is quiet and unchanged; sales of Shelled on wharf at 95@97c—sale of 68 sacks in store at $1,05. Rye is still quoted at $1,75@1,80. No Barley in this market.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is scarce and in demand at the recent advance, $2,50. Small sales of Cloverseed at $8, and Timothy at $2,75.

FLOUR—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and the market is quiet and unchanged; we continue to quote Spring Wheat at $10,50 to $11,00; Winter Wheat at $12 to $12,50, and fancy brands at $14 to $15. Rye Flour is firm at $8,25.

Buckwheat is quiet and unchanged at $4,50 per cwt.

HAY—Loose Hay is selling from country wagons at $20 to $25, as to quality. Baled is selling on wharf at $21.

LARD OIL—Is firm but unchanged; regular sales of No. 2 at 98c@$1, and $1,28@$1,30 for No. 1.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches firm but unchanged; regular jobbing sales at 11@11½c. Apples steady at 7@8c.

BEANS—Firm, in limited supply, and in fair local demand at $4,50 to $5.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is somewhat excited and firmer; sales at 11½ to 11¾c for Shoulders; 13½ to 15c for Ribbed and Clear Sides; 16½c for Breakfast Bacon, and 17 to 17½c for Sugar Cured Hams. Prime kettle Lard, 15¾ to 16c, in tierces, and 16½c, in kegs. Mess Pork, $25 to $25,50. Dried Beef, 21½ to 22c.

HOMINY—Is quiet and unchanged; sales at $6,25 to $6,50 per bbl.

ONIONS—Scarce and held firmly at $4,50 per bushel.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Monday, March 23, 1868.

CATTLE.

There was again a short supply of cattle on sale to-day, and with the usual retail demand, the market was firmer and good prices were realized, though compared with last week there is no advance. The quality of cattle was fully up to the usual average with the exception that there was no premium stock; if there had been, it would doubtless have brought last weeks' prices. We quote fair to good butchers cattle at 6@7; medium to prime at 7½ to 8½c; and extra at 9 to 9½c. Stockers continue to meet with a steady demand, and sell without much difficulty at 5½c to 6½c, as to quality. There were no eastern buyers in attendance, and there was but one drove bought to ship east—Myers & Needy shipped three car loads to Baltimore. Philadelphia, it seems, is getting a good many cattle from Baltimore, and many of these buyers, who used to buy and ship from here every week, are now buying in that market.

A New York correspondent writes as follows: John T. Alexander, one of the heaviest stock dealers here, it is said, will cease to bring his cattle over the Pennsylvania roads after the 1st of May, but will turn his business over to the Erie. In that case the Communipaw yards are likely to be used up. Alexander moves, through that medium, from 500 to 800 per week. I give the rumor fot what it is worth.

Stakely & Bro. sold 28 head of Penna. steers, oxen and heifers at 6½ to 8c; and two bulls at 5¼.

Smith & Talmage sold 10 head for Glass, Lafferty & Co. at 7¾ to 8¾.

Hazlewood & Blackstock report having retailed 51 head of Chicago cattle at 8 to 9¼.

N. Carr sold 20 head for Dolan & Ivory at 7,50 to 8,90.

Hedges & Taylor sold 20 head for Berry at 6,25; 15 for Messenger, Gillett & Co. at 8 to 8,25; 23 for Armstrong at 6¾ to 7½.

M. Verner reports 18 head of prime to extra fat cattle at 8¾ to 9½.

Glass, Lafferty & Co. report having sold 20 head at 7½ t 8¾.

Marks & Traurman report having sold 70 head of prime to extra cattle at 8 to 9,25; and 26 head of good stockers at 6,60.

Dolan & Ivory report having retailed 50 head of prime to extra at 7½ to 9.

Greenwald & Kahn report 60 head at 7½ to 9,25.

L. Rothchilds wholesaled 36 head of prime Chicago fat cattle at 8,25; retailed 20 head of steers at 7½ to 8.

Myers & Needy retailed 50 head from Chicago at 8 to 9. Shipped 53 head to Baltimore.

John Kerwin bought one pair of oxen from Shaw at 6,50; and 3 bulls at 5.

Kraus & Haas retailed 55 head of Chicago and Ohio cattle at 7,62½ to 9,25.

SHEEP.

There was a limited supply of Sheep on sale to-day, and with a good retail demand and some inquiry for shipment, the market was very stiff, and holders experienced no difficulty in realizing full prices. One Philadelphia buyer picked up 258 head, for shipment to that market, and with this number taken from the supply, the number left for the retail buyers was very small, and, as we have already intimated, holders sold readily at extreme prices.

Adam Eckert wholesaled 87 head to Hoffman at 5¾.

R. C. Crum bought from Pennington for Pancoast, 171 head at 6,68; 50 from same to same at 6; and 37 from another seller to same buyer at $4,75 per head.

Dilworth sold Richardson 20 head of extra Beaver Co. Sheep, averaging 120 lbs, at 8.

Stakely & Garwin retailed 70 head of mixed at 4½ to 7.

Emerick & Co. wholesaled 90 head to Tesh & Bro. (butchers) at 6¾.

HOGS.

The demand for Hogs is only moderate, and while the market seems to be a shade easier, prices are without quotable change, ranging from 8½ to 11c, gross, according to quality.

Emerick & Co. report having retailed 200 head during the past week at 8,50 to 11.

Rothchilds & Byers report 50 head during same time at 10 to 11.

DOMESTIC GOODS MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, Monday, March 23, 1868.

Owing, we believe, to an active rivalry between two vast jobbing houses in New York, as to which could or would lose the most on Brown Sheetings and offer to supply their respective customers the cheapest, a material decline has been established ing New York to be followed quickly, we suppose, by an advance, as cotton has not declined. The Pittsburgh manufacturers have put down their prices so that this market presents the same relative advantages to the western buyer as before. We reduce our quotations accordingly:

HEAVY 4-4 STANDARDS.

Anchor, Eagle and Penn Mills	17½c
Nonetook, Conewaga and Idaho	17c
Duquesne, Juniata and Anchor Co	15½c

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

Letter from Paris—The Political Situation of France—The Kerrequen Affair—The Press Bill—A Princely Visit—Financial Trickery—Scandalous—The Perils of Journalism—Paris as a City—Hygenia—Crime.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PARIS, March 5, 1868.

If appearances were to be trusted, the state of France at the present moment reveals peace abroad and no dissatisfaction at home. The journals would appear, for the last month at least, to confirm the serenity, and the conversations at the clubs, cafes and salons to support it. As elsewhere, Paris dances on a volcano. The want of bread is felt severely throughout the country—the agricultural population abandons its fields for the town, where industry is at a stand still, commerce declining, and financial matters nearly at a dead-lock, while the caves of the Bank are full of that money which ought to find its way into the business channels of the country. In sullen silence the nation has submitted to the new army bill, which almost goes to make every man a soldier—for the lesson of Sadowa has made the Emperor a convert to the doctrine that a large peace army constitutes a country's real strength and greatness, and not successful industry and prosperous trade. There are few questions of European importance that France has not in them an object to promote or an interest to guard. Her relations with Russia are daily becoming colder as that power urges on the insurrection in Crete, or fosters discontent in Bulgaria. With Prussia she would desire to live in amity, at all events for the moment, until the crisis in Italy shall be terminated and the Turkish empire galvanized for another ten year's existence. France looked on with helpless astonishment, at the unification of Northern Germany, and she must regard with no small delight, the growing resistance that Bismark meets with in the petty States which he has incorporated. The French are always on the point of leaving Rome, but somehow, get no further than Civita Vecchia, and then, back to the Eternal City. The fact is, the Revolution, which is imminent in Italy, owing to the King's inability, and the intrigue and insincerity of his ministers, is a serious question for France. It is better to stamp Revolution out; therefore, at Rome, than to court a "three day's catastrophe" in Paris. These political diseases spread so rapidly. On the 21st day of February, 1858, there were only to be counted one hundred and forty-four Republicans in France. Before three days expired, all the country was enthusiastically Republican. The Emperor can, in a few weeks, bring into the field one million and a quarter of trained soldiers. Night and day the arsenals are at work, displaying a "Crimean" activity. At St. Etienne, the imperial factory turns out, by means of its twelve thousand artizans, nine hundred chassepots daily, and M. Noel's extraordinary cannon is about being adopted. Great countries cannot nurse great armies long in idleness, and when giants rush to the combat, all giants sooner or later become involved.

THE KERVEGNEN AFFAIR.

The Kervegnen affair is likely to last as long as the Trojan war. A Jury of Honor on its "soul and conscience" declared the charge of certain of the Paris papers, notably the Siecle and Opinion Nationale, of having received money from foreign Ministers to be false and calumnious. The proprietors of these papers are like their accusor, M. De Kervegnen, Deputies, and as the accusation was made in the Corps Legislatif, and went forth to the country through its proceedings, it was natural that the accused should endeavor to adopt the same means to refute it. But when M. Havin, Le Siecle, ascended the Tribune to read the verdict of the Jury of Honor, the Emperor himself being the first to congratulate the accused on their honorable acquittal, a frightful scene ensued. Every kind of interruption was resorted to by the Deputies, and finally they rushed out of the Chamber, leaving the President under the impression that a "Fire!" had been announced, and M. Havin stood transfixed in the Tribune looking into his hat, and sipping the historic glass of sugar and water. The President soon retired without formally closing the sitting, and the gasman reminded M. Havin it was time for "turning off." Yesterday another stormy scene took place, under the Presidency of M. du Mival, arising out of the same incident, and which only showed how deep and personal political feeling runs in France, and how cruelly intolerant can be to each other the children of the Revolution.

It was generally believed, that with the finding of the Jury of Honor in the Kervegnen affair, the charge of corruption against the Parisian press would end. Not so; a government journal, Le Pays, solemnly announces, that it holds the written documents, duly signed by ministers of several foreign courts, inculpating five or six of its contemporaries, with having received either money or decorations, and invites those journals for liberty to publish these documents. Some treat the affair with sovereign contempt, others grant the permission demanded, and two have taken an action for defamation, It is a pretty quarrel as it stands. A. M. La Varaene left important papers, directing them to be burned after his death. These papers, containing letters from distinguished public men and their dealings with the French press, were ordered by the Judge to be opened and examined—particularly bundle No. 6—by the Jury of Honor, upon the promise not to divulge their contents. It is believed that the Pays has got hold of some of these papers. At all events lithographed copies of the principal letters in the celebrated bundle, one being daily sent to the members of the Corps Legislatif.

THE PRESS BILL.

These unfortuhate events, destined yet to make a great sensation, occur at a very inopportune moment, when the fate of the Press Bill hangs in the balance. The Emperor is undoubtedly anxious to give some liberty to the press, but the Deputies are determined to thwart him. Whatever form the new law may take, it will not be less Draconian than the present. It does certainly remove some of the heavy fetters that weigh on the press, but in telling the liberated to march, the new law surrounds its head with a series of Damocles's swords. The French press desires to be perfectly free, that of Paris to have all papers taxed alike, or all untaxed, but certainly not the new system of making the metropolitan journals pay two-thirds higher stamp duty, and in the same ratio in the way of penalties, than the provincial papers. Imprisonment and fines will be maintained for sinning editors, and the suspending of a journal, will no longer be subject to the whim of a minister. A judge alone will continue to decide upon the crimes and misdemeanors of the press. This is regrettable, for however pure these decisions be, there has been a remarkable monotony in tae convictions of the journals before the Sixth Chamber. Indeed, over the portals of it might be written for the benefit of editors, "Abandon hope all, ye who enter here."

THE PRINCELY VISIT.

The visit of Prince Napoleon to Northern Germany has given rise to a good deal of speculation. Some say he has gone to see how Bismarck's "union" is getting on; others to drown his discontent at the Emperor not approving of a speech he had prepared to deliver in the Senate on the new Press Bill. The "family party" at the Tuileries recommended the Prince to travel, to go anywhere until after the bill in question became law. The Prince is spoken of as likely to visit Algeria in place of the Emperor in April next, and to report how the condition of that colony can be improved;

It is a punishable offence to shout Vive Garibaldi, Pologne, or Italia, still more so Vive la Republique. Only think that at the Chatelet Theatre, a new piece is to be performed called Le Vengeur, founded upon the naval contest before Brest, between the English and Republican fleets, in May, 1794, when one of the French versels "Le Vengeur," rather than surrender, sank, the whole crew going down with her to the cry of Vive la Republique. The Emperor would not allow the censors to strike out this now penal cry, which will doubtless bring down the house nightly.

FINANCIAL TRICKERY.

An individual, deserving to pass as an American, went to the telegraph office at the Grand Hotel and sent a despatch to the Chief of Police, for liberty to announce at the Bourse, that the Emperor had met with an accident. Inquiry was made—the news were found out to be false, and when the inquirer was looked for at the Grand Hotel, no such person was known. He is one of that low gang, whose sole duty is to invent reports so as to affect the funds—and who are too often countenanced by respectable brokers and speculators.

GENERAL TOPICS.

The first act of the carnival is over, and all Paris is purchasing repentance at private concerts and the Bois. The weather is now quite spring-like, and no where are spring mornings more lovely and animated than here. The drives around the lakes are daily blocked up with carriages and pedestrians, the highest and the humblest rushing to enjoy themselves. The racing season has opened more hopefully than successfully, but it is early yet. There is much misery and shivering among the poor of the city, but the gaities of the well-to-do classes have done much to alleviate it. Unquestionably in the rounds of "fast life," the Americans have left all others behind and induced a great many people to follow their example. To say nothing of the brilliant "At Homes" of the American minister, the private balls given by American families are models of luxury and taste. Nay more, the American girls have carried all before them, and no matter what ball you go to the belles of the evening are sure to be Americans.

It was a common and a true remark, during the occupancy of the British Embassy by the Earl of Cowley, that one of the sights of Paris was to see smoke issuing from the kitchen chimney of the Embassy. Lord Lyons had better make haste, or the same attraction may be included among the city amusements.

SCANDALOUS.

The Tribunal of Commerce has just put its foot upon a system of heartless swindling. The queens of demi-monde, when their lovers had nothing to express their admiration in the way of money, were in the habit of taking long-dated bills, arriving at maturity about the same as the drawer. These bills, often for vast sums, were put into circulation by their frail holders, to pay their millinners, coach builders, &c., and when presented for payment, worked many an honorable "Paterfamilias" into a terrible excitement. The Court has decided that these "boudoir" bills, having been improperly obtained, do not represent any lawful transaction, and leaves those who accept them as payment, to bear the consequences. This is a great blow to the demi-monde, but it has not come a moment too soon.

THE PERILS OF JOURNALISM.

It is wonderful the number of journals that appear, and after strutting their little hour upon the stage, are no more heard of. One journal has just appeared and sells for one sou, and gives to every one of its quarterly subscribers the right to have his photograph taken gratis. An enterprising photonraphist has issued his card terms to intending candidates for the forthcoming elections, setting forth the rates at which he will furnish their portraits—plain or colored—for the admiration of the voters.

PARIS AS A CITY.

There are in Paris 25,540 shops; 115 public fountains; 17 hospitals, civil and military; 16 asylums for the poor; 10 prisons; 23 barracks; 38 pawn offices; 40 chaptors; 5 synagogues; 10 public libraries; 2 reformed churches; 620 bakers; 501 butchers; 2,034 restaurants; 860 hotels; 3,230 cafes; 740 pork butchers; 4,530 wine shops; 1,480 boot and shoe shops; 1,104 tailors; 1,527 doctors; 1,760 lawyers; 412 druggists; 150 baliffs; 250 midwifes, licensed; 114 notaries; 198 bankers; 412 goldsmiths and jewelers, 612 soft goods shops; 442 confectioners; 340 tobacconists; 1,458 grocers. The city is illuminated with 25,515 gas jets. Four distinct companies are entrusted with the cleaning of the streets and employ 6,000 persons—the only public employment free to foreigners, who receive, for ten hours work daily, the men two francs and a half, the women two francs.

HYGENIA.

The Minister of Public Instruction is going to appoint inspectors of gymnastic exercises in the public schools of France. The muscles certainly require as much looking after as the brains.

CRIME.

The records of the Assizes are peculiarly heavy, and reveal an amount of ingenious and dastardly crime, hardly to be paralelled. It appears to be on the increase, notwithstanding the great efforts and sums of money in operation to repress it. Meanwhile the nation goes on as usual—the churches are empty, but the theatres are full, and so long as France is amused "all's well." "X."

READER, CALL TO-DAY,

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BUCHU.

(From Dispensatory of the United States.)

DIOSMA CRENATA. BUCHU LEAVES.

Properties.—Their odor is strong, diffusive and somewhat aromatic, their tastes bitterish, and analagous to mint.

Medical Properties and Uses.—Buchu Leaves are gently stimulant, with a peculiar tendency to the Urinary Organs, producing diuresis, and like other similar medicines, exciting diaphoresis.

They are given in complaints of the Urinary Organs, such as Gravel, Chronic Catarrh of the Bladder, Morbid Irritation of the Bladder and Urethra, Disease of the Prostate and Retention or Incontinence of Urine, from a loss of tone in the parts concerned in its evacuation. The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is used by persons from the ages of 18 to 25, and from 35 to 55, or in the decline or change of life; after Confinement or Labor Pains; Bed Wetting in Children.

In Affections Peculiar to Females the Extract Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhea or Whites.

Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings. This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the Absorbents into healthy action, by which the Watery or Calcareous depositions, and all Unnatural Enlargements are reduced, as well as Pain and Inflammation.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu has cured every case of Diabetes in which it has been given. Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, and Inflammation of the Kidneys, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Retention of Urine, Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Stone in the Bladder, Calculus, Gravel, Brick Dust Deposit and Mucus or Milky Discharges, and for Enfeebled and Delicate Constitutions, of both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruption on the Face, Pallid Countenance, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, &c.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU IS DIURETIC AND BLOOD-PURIFYING.

And cures all Diseases arising from Habits of Dissipation, Excesses and Imprudence in Life, Impurities of the Blood, &c., superseding Copaiba in affections for which it is used, such as Gonorrhea, Gleets of long standing, and Syphilitic Affections—in these diseases used in connection with HELMBOLD'S ROSE WASH.

SECURITY AND COMFORT FOR THE TRAVELING COMMUNITY.

J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,

Car Heater and Moderator,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Fraudulent Distilling--Seizure of the Apparatus--Partial Hearing.

The revenue officers are continually on the alert and occasionally pick up some unfortunate individual whose greediness to accumulate a large amount of "filthy lucre" in a short time has caused him to attempt to defraud the Government of its share of profits. Yesterday morning A. Cosgrave, R. Colville and W. H. Sturgeon, charged on oath of officer Keyser with defrauding the Government by the illicit distillation of whiskey, were arrested and had a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Gamble.

It appears that near the latter part of February, Revenue officer Keyser obtained information to the effect that some parties were engaged in distilling liquors in a part of the building No. 303 Liberty street. On the fifth of the present month he visited the premises named, and made an examination with a view of testing the reliability of his information. In the cellar he discovered a still of the capacity of about one hundred and thirty gallons, which had the appearance of having been recently in use. The cap, however, had been removed, and the still itself lifted from its foundation. The examination was extended to the third floor of the building, and there officer Keyser found the missing "cap," also a still worm, mash tubs, and other appurtenances, and a barrel containing low wines. Being satisfied that the still had recently been in operation, he made preparations to remove the same, but deferred the seizure for a few days. On his return he found that the worm had been taken to pieces and secreted in different places but, he succeeded in finding the separate parts and removed them to the Collector's office.

At the hearing officer Keyser testified that he had been unable to discover definitely who had possession of the cellar and third story of the building, or to whom the still belonged, but that when he was about removing the apparatus Mr. Cosgrove asserted that he had bought it, and dared him (Keyser) to touch it. He also testified that Mr. Sturgeon had an office in the second story of the building, and that Messrs. Weldon & Kelly had been employed to do the necessary plumbing work in setting up the still. He had ascertained that the still was shipped from Philadelphia in boxes marked "furniture," and consigned to the house stated.

After Mr. Keyser had concluded his testimony, the hearing was continued until three o'clock P. M. to-day.

Pittsburgh Petroleum Association--Special Meeting--Resolutions, &c., &c.

A special meeting of the Pittsburgh Petroleum Association was held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, at the rooms of the Association, No. 4 Dalzell's Building, Duquesne Way and Irwin street.

On motion of Mr. Kirk, Major Wm. Frew was called to the chair.

Mr. Frew stated that the meeting had been called at the instance of Mr. Kirk, and the Association were now ready to hear for what purpose the call was made.

Mr. Kirk then offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this Association fully approves and endorses the action of the National Convention, held in this city, March 4th, in reference to the United States tax on Petroleum, and that we are totally opposed to any tax or taxes being levied either on Crude or Refined Petroleum.

Resolved, That while we are thankful for the proposed reduction of one-half the tax by the United States Senate, showing as it does a disposition to ameliorate our condition, yet must regard it as totally inadequate to remedy the evils of which we complain.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association are hereby tendered to the honorable Senators Van Winkle, Cameron, Buckalew and Sumner for their able and eloquent remarks in behalf of our cause; and also to the Senators who supported them by their votes, and that we hope and trust they will continue their efforts until this odious tax is repealed and justice done to an important interest.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Pittsburgh papers and a copy forwarded to the National Oil Committee at Washington, D. C.

The resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Warden submitted the following:

Resolved, That we acknowledge the services of our Representatives and others, and request the House of Representatives to give our cause a careful consideration, and urge them to repeal the tax on refined oil, and ask the Committee of Ways and Means of the House to examine the report of the Committee of the National Convention, now in Washington, as it fully covers our case.

On motion of Mr. Kirk, laid on the table.

On motion, adjourned.

Two Men Buried Alive—Fatal Accident.

A distressing accident occurred at the Superior Brick Works, one mile east of Torrens station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, yesterday morning, by which two of the employes, Jacob Saddler and Joseph Petigrew, met with a horrible death. They had just been employed yesterday morning and were set to work excavating clay. The superintendent, it appears, warned them to be careful and left them at work. He returned about an hour afterwards to see how they were progressing, and discovered that the bank had caved in, but no signs of the workmen were visible. Tools were obtained and men set to work to ascertain if they had been buried in the pit. After digging down about one foot the body of one of the men was found and taken out, and a few inches beneath it the other was discovered. They were both dead. Coroner Clawson was notified and held an inquest on the bodies yesterday afternoon, when the jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts. Saddler was twenty-five years of age and Petigrew twenty-one. They were single men.

Another Gambling Case--Probably Compromised.

Some two weeks ago J. N. Stokes, hailing from Oil City, made information before Alderman Nicholson, charging Elijah, David and George Hall, and several others whose names we could not ascertain, with being common gamblers, alleging that they had "fleeced" him of all his money. The parties were arrested and held for a hearing, which was to have taken place yesterday, but, as is the custom in such cases now, the prosecutor failed to appear, and the hearing was postponed till Monday, the 13th of April. Whether there was an effort to compromise or not we cannot say, as the Alderman refused to give any information relative to the matter. But it is altogether probable a compromise will be effected, as that appears to be the method of settling cases of that class.

Another Poisoning Case.—Another poisoning case is reported in the Sixth ward. It appears that a dry goods merchant on Wylie street, becoming involved to a considerable extent, and being unable to meet the demands of his creditors, instead of taking the benefit of the bankrupt law swallowed a dose of poison. He was taken suddenly ill afterwards and the family physician being called to see him, discovered the cause of his illness, and administered the proper antidote, which had the desired effect. He will probably take a dose of bankruptcy the next time.

Found.—Friday evening several boys, while playing near Andrew stable, on Sandusky street, Allegheny, found concealed under the stable a box of Navy Monitor tobacco, weighing twenty-two pounds. The stamp of C. D. Arnsthall, United States Inspector of the Twenty-seocnd district, dated March 12th, 1868, was upon the box, which would indicate that it had been stolen recently. It was taken to the Mayor's office.

Our Own Opinion of a Home Institution.

In making our round of calls at places of public interest, on Saturday, we very opportunely happened in at the Pittsburgh Female College. Regarding this home institution as one of the noblest monuments reared to the honor of our city and State, and one in which all friends of learning and culture should take deep interest, we feel assured that a few passing remarks will not be deemed out of place by our readers. It seems to us there are many good, public spirited citizens, who, with Mr. Parton, glory in the many peculiarities of peculiar Pittsburgh; who are unstinted in their terms of praise and laudation of our iron producing furnaces, leviathan foundries and monster workshops, and yet who are so blinded with the dense volume of smoke rolling from the scenes of our industry, as to be unaware that here, situated in one of the prettiest localities in our city, stands an educational institution worthy recognition and rank among the best in the country. Within a comparatively brief time it has outstripped many older schools, and to-day commands patronage from one-third of the States of the Union. And yet we occasionally hear of persons who, instead of acquainting themselves with its facilities for imparting a thoroughly solid and ornamental education, send abroad to institutions where there are fewer teachers and less facilities, and at a much greater cost—"go farther to fare worse." We will not obtrude advice, but venture to suggest to all who have daughters to educate to visit the College and make themselves acquainted with our home institution.

We were delighted and entertained by our visit. The College buildings, which we have frequently described, are situate on one of the prettiest and most secluded avenues of the city, leading from Penn street to Duquesne Way, running along the beautiful Allegheny river. They are among the finest architectural specimens in the city, and are admirably adapted to the purposes for which intended, being large, airy and commodious. Improvements and additions have been made from time to time, until the Chapel, Recitation Rooms, Office, Parlor, Library, Dining Room and Studio are models of their kind. Every hall and room in the building is neatly papered, well lighted and ventilated, and furnished with gas. Some important improvements are now in progress, which will add much to the appearance of the buildings and comfort of the inmates. We ought to add, that there is no such defacing of walls and furniture as is common in our institutions of learning, and that the buildings are kept remarkably neat and clean.

So much for the buildings. The College justly challenges comparison in the number and ability of its Faculty with any ladies' school in the land. The trustees deserve special commendation for the liberality they have always displayed in the management of the College. The object has not been to make money, but to build an institution that would afford to our citizens unsurpassed facilities for the education of their daughters. Every dollar realized from tuition is expended on the institution, the prime object being to secure, first of all, a first-class Faculty. Teachers are selected with reference to their qualifications; every one employed has had from five to twenty-five years experience. In addition to those in the Literary department, there are special teachers in music, drawing and painting, French, German, wax work, needle work, &c., &c.

In conclusion, we urge on our readers, especially those interested in educational matters, to give the claims of the College the full consideration its many excellent qualities merit. It is a growing power in our community, and should be fostered, encouraged and supported with generous hearts and hands. We are pleased to chronicle the fact that its debts are in process of liquidation, and upwards of fifty thousand dollars subscribed as an endowment. We have all reason to be proud of its possession, and should use our best endeavors to promote its usefulness. Instead of representatives from eleven States, we hope the day is not far distant when every State will send its representatives, and Pittsburgh be as well known for its educational facilities as it now is for its manufactures. We wish it the most abundant success, and commend it to all our readers. Yesterday the Spring term opened, a large number of pupils reporting for study. Classes will be formed within a few days, and those charged with the education of girls should send to the President, Dr. I. C. Pershing, for a catalogue.

The Spring Trade—How Our Merchants Have Prepared for It--A Word to Druggists.

With our wholesale dealers the Spring trade has opened lively, and from present appearances the season will prove one of unusual prosperity. The leading houses in all lines of trade have strengthened themselves with very large stocks of goods, in expectation of the increased patronage that will flow in upon them as a necessary consequence of the conservatism in buying and selling which has extended back through two or three business terms. Activity invades all departments of mercantile life, and the good effect of a lively, bustling trade will soon be felt by all classes of the community.

In view of the opening of trade, we feel that it will be timely advice to our friends in the retail drug business, who are making up their Spring orders, to keep in mind the lately established, extensive and well conducted wholesale drug house of Messrs. Harris & Ewing, corner of Liberty and Wayne streets. This house, although but recently established, has already succeeded in building up for itself a large and flourishing trade, which extends throughout our own and contiguous States and the entire West and South. Dr. Harris, whose name heads the firm, has had long and varied experience in the drug trade, and is thoroughly acquainted with the details af every department. For many years he shared largely in the active control and management of the old and well known house of B. A. Fahnestock & Co., and contributed largely to its immense trade and patronage, as well as to its high character as a business firm. Possessing a thorough knowledge of the problems and intricacies of pharmacology, grounded on close application, study and long experience in the buying, selling and handling of drugs, he is particularly well adapted for the senior position in this new and enterprising business house, and his many friends in all parts of the country will be pleased to learn that he has entered extensively into the trade on his own account. Hon. John Ewing is the other member of the firm. He is well known in commercial circles as a gentleman of extensive experience, strict integrity and admirable business qualifications.

The large and commodious salesroom of the firm will be found amply supplied with all the drugs and materials peculiar to this line of trade, and, inasmuch as the house is new, the stock will be found fresh and attractive. In addition to drugs the firm sell at the manufacturers lowest prices, all the "Pittsburgh and White Lead and Color Works'" paints and materials, including strictly pure white lead, zinc paints, Chrome, verditer, and Versailles greens, chrome yellow, vermillion and every variety of colors, dry and ground in oil, which they are prepared to furnish in packages to suit customers. For any and everything in the drug business we earnestly commend the firm of Harris & Ewing to our readers, and trust that druggists and others making up their orders, or visiting the city to purchase their stocks, will keep their establishment in view. The prices throughout the entire house are at the lowest market rates, making it clearly to the advantage of parties to deal there.

Lightning.—Last night we were visited with sharp flashes of lightning, followed by heavy peals of thunder. Winter is giving way before the march of spring,

New Millinery and White Goods House.

The event of this week will be the opening of Rosenbaum, Steinhart & Co.'s Philadelphia Emporium at No. 76 Market street. The curiosity of our fair lady readers in anticipation of this event has been excited in a truly remarkable degree by the rumors and reports which have leaked out in spite of the endeavors of Messrs. Rosenbaum, Steinhart & Co. to prepare for the public a complete surprise. It was the intention of this enterprising firm to execute various extensive improvements in their spacious store rooms in secresy and quiet, till some fine, balmy spring morning there would be unveiled to the astonished gaze of the passers-by and the residents of Pittsburgh and vicinity, a bower of perfect beauty and loveliness. The knowledge of their plans having, however, become general, the veil of secresy has been withdrawn, and Messrs. Rosenbaum, Steinhart & Co. now publicly announce (see our advertising columns) that on Wednesday, March 25th, the Philadelphia Emporium will be opened with an entirely new and well selected stock of Ladies' and Children's Straw Hats and Bonnets, Frames, Artificial Flowers, Black and Colored Crapes, Bonnet and Trimming Ribbons, Straw Cords and Tassels, Ornaments, Pattern Hats and Bonnets, Laces, Veilings, a full line of White Goods, Hosiery, Gloves, Corsets, Handkerchiefs, etc., etc., to which they invite the attention of purchasers wholesale and retail. It is well known that this firm has an abundant capital, and having two large establishments on Eighth street, Philadelphia, they are enabled to purchase largely and at the very lowest rates. The senior partner, who has had long experience in the business, is constantly in the Eastern markets, and the patrons of the Philadelphia Emporium will consequently receive new styles as soon as they appear, Messrs. Rosenbaum, Steinhart & Co., are well aware that the new establishment coming among so many old and well established houses labors under disadvantages, and they, therefore, propose to offer inducements in prices, which we are assured will astonish and delight the public, and build up for themselves with unexampled rapidity a large custom. A new and most praiseworty feature of this establishment will be that the retail department will be conducted solely by lady clerks, an innovation for which we predict great success. Messrs. R. S. & Co. intend to adhere strictly to the one price system, and as the attendants will be numerous and experienced, their patrons can depend on having their wants satisfactorily and expeditiously supplied. In conclusion, we tender the new firm our best wishes for their success, and recommend to all our readers an examination of the stock at the Philadelphia Emporium before purchasing elsewhere.

Robbed in a Street Car.

Mr. Martin F. B. Mercer was robbed of his pocket book containing $170 in greenbacks two promisory notes worth $300, and receipts for $1,000, Saturday night, in one of the Pittsburgh and Birmingham Passenger cars. He came to the city Saturday evening, and returned to Birmingham late, taking the last car. On board the car were a number of roughs, several of whom lived on the South side of the river, but Mr. Mercer was acquainted with their names. On arriving at his house, the car stopped, and he stepped on the platform. Suddenly the party of roughs rushed out and got off in advance, jostling him as they passed. He now happened to put his hand in his pocket, and found that his book had been stolen. Instead of following and taking measures to arrest the roughs, who undoubtedly stole the money, the loser stayed to inquire of the conductor about the lost pocket-book, and while he did so, the others disappeared. They and the money have since been invisible.

Another Bawdy House Case.

The days of bawdy houses in this city, it would appear from the number of prosecutions recently, are at an end, or at least the time has passed when the keepers of the numberless dens of vice and iniquity, and those who frequent such places, can do so with any degree of safety. The prying eyes of the law have penetrated beyond the land and gone out upon the "mighty waters" of the Allegheny, in search of wrong doers. On Saturday James McKenna made information before Alderman Taylor charging John Walls with keeping a bawdy house. He alleges that Walls is the proprietor of a floating establishment at the foot O'Hara street in the Allegheny river, where men and women of lewd habits congregate, to the great annoyance of the peaceable and law-abiding residents of that locality. It appears that the prosecutor has some knowledge of the establishment, as he a few days since received a body-beating from Walls, while on a visit there, in consequence of which he made information against him for assault and battery. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Walls.

The Attraction.

The manner in which the establishment of Bates & Bell, 21 Fifth street, has been thronged with ladies since the weather has become pleasant, and the streets passable, is truly wonderful to those not acquainted with the many attractions there in the way of fine goods at low figures. The finest lot of Piques for ladies and children's dresses ever offered in the city are on exhibition there to-day, in addition to which is a full stock of linen goods, consisting in part of towels, napkins, handkerchiefs, pillow linens, sheetings, &c. A large stock of marsailles, honey comb, Alhambra and Imperial; also, a full assortment of crib and cradle quilts of every conceivable pattern. The stock of silks and dress goods generally is very large and attractive. Last but not least, is the large stock of shawls, spring cloths, buttons for sacques and a superior assortment of chintzes.

Hand Sewing

Is not thought of in these progressive days. It is a toil too tedious for housekeepers, and the seamstress, forced to earn her living with the needle, finds the process all too slow to provide her the necessary income. The sewing machine has been established as the required friend; but if a sewing machine fails, through some imperfection, to perform its duties, it is a drawback rather than a helpmate. It must be reliable, must accomplish excellent and durable work, must be adapted to various thicknesses of material, must be simple in construction and easily operated. The Weed Sewing Machine possesses all these meritorious qualities. Satisfy yourself of this by visiting the establishment of the Weed Sewing Machine, and be accommodated in price and terms, at R. H. Long's, No. 115 Grant street.

Disabled Firemen.

PITTSBURGH, March 21, 1868.

Mr. John T. Logan, Treasurer:—We the undersigned, life members of the "Society for the Relief of Disabled Firemen," desiring to have the original design of the Society carried out, and to re-organize the same, request you, as the only surviving officer of the Society, present, to call a meeting of all members who are entitled to vote, on Tuesday, March 24th, 1868, for the purpose above specified. (Signed.)

James Park, Jr., R. Edwards, D. Fitzsimmons, Samuel Fahnestock, P. A. Madeira, Thos. M. Howe, William M. Lyon, Josiah King, James Irwin, H. Childs.

In compliance with the above request, I appoint Tuesday, the 24th day of March, 1868, at three o'clock p. m., at the Mayor's office, as the time and place of meeting.

(Signed.) JOHN T. LOGAN,
Treasurer Society for the Relief of Disabled Firemen.

Committed.—Thomas McClelland charged, on oath of James Wickersham, with felonious assault and battery, had a hearing before the Mayor yesterday, and in default of the required bail for his appearance at Court was committed to jail.

Lotta.

Last night a full house greeted this actress. The first piece, the "Pet of the Petticoats," was well played by Lotta, because she cannot play otherwise, and the stock did not do badly, especially Mrs. Mark Bates, who is a host (or perhaps a hostess) in herself. But in the after-piece, as "Nan the Good for Nothing," the "Dramatic Cocktail" completely took the audience by storm, her singing, her toilette, her dancing, banjo-playing and sweet and perfectly irresistible face acted like magic on the audience, which from gallery to orchestra applauded with all its might. Five times did Miss Lotta answer to encores, and she would would probably have been doing so yet if she had not, with one of her characteristic little manœuvres, shown that she was fatigued. What Lotta is, the New York critics have in vain tried to tell. When Mimi said last night to Paul, "You are the Devil," she was nearly right, for surely only a supernatural being could be so sweet, joyous, fascinating and effervescent as was the pretty debutante of last evening. To-night she will appear in the same roles as last night, and those who cannot see her are greatly to be pitied.

Pocket Picked.

John Savage, while attending the sale of the lease on the Optic Saloon, Fifth street, yesterday, had his pocket picked of his pocket book containing twelve dollars. He discovered his loss as soon as he left the saloon, and remembering that a young man, a stranger in the city, was near him while in the building, he informed an officer, and pointing the young man out, had him arrested. The accused, who was conveyed to the watch house, gave his name as Edward Andrews, and said that he had just arrived in the city from Philadelphia. He is a tinsmith and in search of work. He tells a plain, straightforward story, and has not the appearance of a thief or pickpocket. He will probably be released from custody to-day.

The District Attorneyship.

In our advertising columns to-day the friends of General A. L. Pearson present his name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of District Attorney of this county. Without wishing to participate in the canvass in advance, we can only say that he is a gentleman eminently qualified for the office, and has a military and political record of the very highest order, and one that entitles him to the confidence of his party. If nominated he will make an efficient and capable officer, such an one as would reflect credit upon the judgment of those who might elevate him to the position.

Grand Concert.

This evening a number of our most talented amateur vocalists and instrumental performers will give a grand concert in the Presbyterian Church, corner of Franklin and Market streets, Manchester. The programme embraces the names of Mrs. Mellor, Messrs. Hanghawont, Manning, Breed, Wade and Mellor, and the selections are gems in vocal and instrumental music. Persons wishing to attend can readily reach the church by taking the Manchester Railway cars and getting out at the corner of Franklin street and Beaver Avenue. As the object is very laudable and the entertainment will be grand, we trust there will be a large attendance.

Pittsburgh Theatre.

The entertainment at the Old Theatre last evening was, if possible, better than any that have preceeded it since the opening night. Annetti Gelletti was the stellar attraction, and will continue to be while she remains, as it would be a difficult matter to place a more brilliant light upon the stage. Mr. Ames has been peculiarly successful in the selection of his company and it is gratifying to know that his liberality and energy in endeavoring to please the public is fully appreciated. An attractive bill will be presented to night in which the entire new company of stars will appear.

A Worthless Husband.—Fannie Painter made oath before Alderman Strain, yesterday, against her husband for surety of the peace. Some time since she made oath charging him with assault and battery, but at the solicitation of her friends, and upon his promises to conduct himself better in future, it was withdrawn, since when she alleges he keeps her in continual fear for the lives of herself and children. He is not addicted to drunkenness, it appears, but is naturally vicious and wicked. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Patent French Crackers.—Marvin, the well known and extensive steam cracker baker, No. 91 Liberty street, has just introduced the patent French crackers, a new variety, which are pronounced the best cracker ever baked. They are wholesome, palatable, nutritious, and peculiarly tender and delicate, and should be tried by everybody. They will grow very popular when generally introduced and known. Mr. Marvin bakes every variety of crackers, and his prices are very reasonable.

Embellised with a rough but excellent likeness of Henry Ward Beecher, Putnam, for April, has come to us. As usual, its articles, as a class, entitle the magazine to rank among the first in the country, although there is no one of them brilliant to make any marked sensation. E. A. Duckynck, Mrs. R. H. Stoddard, J. S. C. Abbot, Wirt Sikes, Grace Greenwood and others contribute to this number. Mr. Henry Miner has the magazine for sale.

New Telegraph.—We are pleased to announce that the Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph Co. has opened an office at the Western Pennsyluania Railroad Depot, on Federal street, Allegheny, for public business. Messages will be received and transmitted to all prominent points East, West and South, and to the different oil regions. Mrs. Foster, an experienced operator and pleasant, agreeable lady, has assumed charge of the office.

Assault and Battery.—Yesterday Mary Noonan appeared before Alderman Thomas and preferred an information, charging Kate McCaughey with assault and battery. It is alleged by the prosecutrix that the defendant slapped her little daughter in the face and otherwise injured her. The difficulty grew out of a quarrel between the children of the parties. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

The Last Method.—It is stated that two men, purporting to belong to Pinkerton's force of detectives and assigned to duty in this city, have been endeavoring to extort money from the friends of Mr. Freyvogle, whose mysterious absence has been so frequently alluded to, by intimating that he is still living, and proposing to return him to his friends for a certain consideration.

Election Contested.—Mr. J. J. Shultz, one of the candidates announced as defeated, has taken steps to contest the election held in East Birmingham on Friday of last week, alleging errors in the count of the votes by the officers. Mr. S. was one of the Republican candidates for School Director. The hearing is fixed for Saturday next in the Quarter Sessions Court.

Selling Goods by Sample.—In the case of John Wilson, charged on oath of G. W. Gillespie with selling goods by sample without having taken out a license, which we reported yesterday. Judgment was given against the defendant for $300, the amount of the penalty. It is the intention of the defendant to take an appeal and test the matter in Court.

Disorderly Conduct.—Joseph Moul, Chas. Timmons and Henry Cash were arrested on Lacock street, Allegheny, yesterday, for disorderly conduct and fined $5.00 and costs.

Gough's Lecture.

Decidedly the largest audience drawn together during the present successful lecture season of the Young Men's Mercantile Library was that in attendance at the Academy last night to greet with welcome America's great advocate of Temperance, John B. Gough. The lecture was all that could be desired and afforded much pleasure and delight to those in attendance. This evening the subject of the lecture will be "Curiosity," a theme which has been woven into an intensely interesting discourse. To-morrow evening "Eloquence and Oratory," will be discussed by this most popular of all lecturers.

Assault and Battery.—James McKenna made information before Alderman Thomas yesterday, charging Michael Stapleton with assault and battery. The parties reside in the Fifth ward. The prosecutor alleges that the defendant without cause or provocation beat and abused him. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Another "Sample Seller" Done For.—Officer Seth Wilmot yesterday made information before Alderman Owston, charging E. F. Gladding with selling goods by sample without a license. The accused was arrested and paid the fine of $300, when he was discharged.

The Relief Steam Fire Engine was the only steamer which crossed to the fire on Sunday night, and performed very good service. This company is one of the most active and prompt in the city, and we are glad to award them proper credit in this case.

Personal.—Hon. John F. Tracy, President of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company, and several other railroad men, arrived in this city yesterday evening, on important business connected with railroad affairs.

CITY ITEMS.

No Miracle at All.

PITTSBURGH, March 21, 1868.

A little more than four years ago I introduced in this city the use of Nitrous Oxide, or Laughing Gas, for the painless and pleasant extraction of Teeth. Up to this date I have given it to ten thousand persons without the first failure to produce insensibility to pain, or a single case of unpleasant effects from the Gas. Every patient has written his or her name on a scroll book certifying to these facts, and each name is numbered from the beginning. A few days since a patient wrote opposite to his name: "Had Dr. Spencer lived in ancient times he would have been worshipped as divine. Prometheus stole fire from heaven. But Dr. Spencer can pluck without pain the burning fire-brand from hell." A clergyman wrote: "When I entered Dr. Spencer's office and saw on the door, 'Teeth extracted without pain,' I thought it a very bold statement. I can now certify that it is strictly true."

Our business has increased so much of late that patients to avoid waiting will do well to make engagements in advance. Still owing to our increased facilities for the business, it is rare that a person has to wait more than half an hour.

The extraction of teeth is our specialty, and we think we can do it in the best manner possible. Practice makes perfect. There are thousands having decayed teeth or ulcerated teeth, whose health would be improved, breath sweetened, and life lengthened by having them extracted and a new set inserted. It is as easy to have them out, as far as pain is concerned, as to wish them out.

Yours, &c.,
G. W. SPENCER,
No. 254 Penn street.

Advice to Consumptives.

Dr. Keyser says: "You want air, not physic; you want pure air, not medicated air; you want plenty of nutrition, such as plenty of meat and bread will give, and they alone; physic has no nutriment; gasping for air cannot cure you; monkey capers in a gymnasium cannot cure you; and stimulants cannot cure you. If you want to get well, go in for beef and out-door air."—Republic.

He says further: Don't put off the first symptoms. "A little leak may sink a great ship;" a small sore in the throat, lungs or liver will soon involve the whole body. How often do we see people put off for a year or two what in the beginning could have been remedied for a trifle. The Doctor's advice is and always has been, attend to the first symptoms of disease. Do not let the constitution become a wreck before you begin to mend; if you do, ten to one, there will be no remedy. There is a remedy for every disease if taken in time. A slight sore throat or cough may be removed with comparatively little trouble; but a constitution, sinking and breaking to pieces by allowing these little troubles to accumulate is not so easy. Dr. Keyser's mode of lung sounding is unique, and as thorough as it is unique. There is not a spot or space over the whole surface of the lungs that he does not sound and investigate, and by so doing is enabled to supply the appropriate remedy.

Artificial Flowers.

At W. W. Moorhead's fashionable retail trimming store and notion house, No. 81 Market street, an elegant assortment of beautiful artificial bonnet flowers has just been opened. The selection embraces many very neat and rich patterns and designs, which will prove very attractive to the ladies. Mr. Moorhead has also received an invoice of fashionable straw goods, which is large and complete, and will just suit the wants of the numerous patrons of this well known house. Prices very reasonable.

To the Reader.—Reineman, Meyran & Siedle give notice that they will occupy their magnificent new building on Fifth street on the first proximo, and will open an immense stock of new goods. They will continue in the meanwhile, however, to offer at their old stand, No. 29 Fifth street, great bargains in watches, clocks, jewelry, silver and silver plated wares, &c., &c., at very low prices, as they are anxious to close out their entire old stock preparatory to opening their new establishment.

Market Street Property at Auction.—Tuesday, March 21st, at 2 o'clock P. M., on the premises will be sold that valuable property, Nos. 51 and 53 Market street, having a front of 32 feet extending back in depth to an alley 111 feet. Rare chance for investment. See auction advertisement of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland.

CITY ITEMS.

$5,000 Reward will be paid by Dr. Spencer, the eminent Dentist, No. 254 Penn street, in any case where he fails to extract the most difficult tooth without pain.

N. B.—Dr. S. is the originator of Laughing Gas in Pittsburgh.

Parties desiring the services of a first-class plumber and gas and steam fitter are referred to T. T. Ewens, whose establishment is located at No. 165 Wood street, near Sixth. Mr. Ewens thoroughly understands every branch of his business, employs none but first class and skillful mechanics, and gives personal supervision to all work entrusted to his care. He attends promptly to orders from the country districts, and will send workmen to any point desired on very reasonable terms. A full supply of gas fixtures and fittings, iron and wood pumps, sinks, bath tubs, &c., &c., is kept constantly on hand at very reasonable prices.

The Continental Dining Saloon, on Fifth street, one door west of the Postoffice, is without question a model one. Mr. Holtzheimer, the proprietor, has unlimited experience in the business, and no one knows better than he how to please the public. As a caterer to the wants and tastes of his customers he is unsurpassed, and that his efforts to please are appreciated is plainly evident from the large amount of patronage he receives. His tables are always supplied with the best the market affords, and the excellent style in which eatables are prepared at the Continental is sufficient to tempt the appetite of the greatest epicure.

Neat, durable and handsome are the trunks manufactured and sold, wholesale and retail, at the premium trunk factory of Joseph Liebler, No. 104 Wood street. A large and complete assortment are now in store for the spring trade. Dealers and retail patrons can be suited no better elsewhere at more reasonable prices. Full lines of valises, carpet sacks, hand satchels, port folios, &c., on hand and at bargains. Give our friend Liebler a call for anything in his way, and you cannot fail to be suited.

To Capitalists.—The books for subscription to the capital stock of the Federal Street and Pleasant Valley Railway Company will be open at Gray's hotel, Jackson street, Second ward, at the office of W. P. Price, Real Estate Agent, No. 33 Ohio street, Allegheny, and at the Pittsburgh Savings Bank, No. 186 and 188 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, until April 2d, 1868.

By order of the Board of Directors.
3t W. M. CLANEY, President.

Allegheny Readers will find at the extensive and well supplied wholesale and retail grocery house of Messrs. McBride & George, No. 164 Federal street, a very fine and fresh stock of groceries and provisions, which the firm offers at very reasonable prices. Nowhere else in either city can purchases be made to better advantage, or more desirable groceries be obtained.

To City and Country Merchants.—Having abundantly supplied ourselves with goods before the late extreme advance in prices, we are prepared to sell at less than eastern prices, and invite an examination of our stock. J. W. BARKER, & Co.,
59 Market street.

At Robinson's old established tea mart, No. 20 Fifth street, ladies will find an excellent fresh stock of teas, coffees, and general groceries, at very reasonable prices.

Pickles, canned fruits, and general condiments or relishes, in variety, at the old established tea mart of Joseph A. Robinson, No. 20 Fifth street.

NEW SPRING GOODS,

Adapted to a FIRST CLASS MERCHANT TAILORING TRADE,

JUST OPENED, AT

HENRY G. HALE'S,

Corner of Penn and St. Clair Streets.

FOR SALE.—HOBOKEN.—THE balance of those desirable Lots are now offered at private sale, and any one desirous of fine building sites would do well to make a selection. The village is located on a beautiful and healthy spot, two and a half miles from Sharpsburg, on the Western Pennsylvania Railroad, which runs through it, making it much more valuable and agreeable. Extensive preparations are now making for erecting a number of fine houses, which will prove an ornament to the town. The remainder of these Lots will be sold at very reasonable rates and on terms exceedingly easy. SILL & SHUTTERLY, Real Estate and Insurance Agents, Lawrenceville.
